Much as I hate to give Gas town - on - Burrard credit for anything save fog and thuggery, I am forced to concede that Vancouver's live-wire DPA group hasn't been sitting on their hands in the matter of student bus fares.

On Thursday, through Alex Macdonald, NDP for Vancouver-East, they backed earlier protests against outrageous student bus fares with a 23,000-name petition for an easement more adequate than the two and a half cent cut awarded in January.

They request a five-cent reduction, and to back their pitch, point to the hardship imposed on families with several school children by the present 10-for-a-dollar ticket strip or 15 cents cash rate on school days only.

I've never been sure just how effective petitions are, but Mr. Macdonald at least made an impressive sight as he lugged the petition scrolls into the House in a well-worn pack-sack.

It should also be remembered, I suppose, that the old folks' $5 supplementary allowance raise followed soon after a bus pass plea backed by a mountain of Victoria signatures.

Lady member Lois Hagen, from whom we haven't heard much lately, had a word to say at the afternoon sitting about that new attraction for restless adolescents, the discotheque.

Mrs. Hagen boggled the pronunciation of the name which these dancing-to-disco houses have brought with them from France via New York. She hadn't been in one, either, and was doubtful what went on behind their doors.

"But," she said, "I'm afraid these clubs are being organized and operated simply to make money from young people."

"I haven't been in one, but I have talked to a number of parents, and they are very concerned over what's going on."

What goes on, I'm told, is the specialized dancing of youth, without inspiration of liquor. Such incidents as have arisen involve the kids who went on from the discotheques.

Mrs. Hagen's general, and gloomy view: "I'm perturbed because I feel we're being faced with a world of undisciplined youth; and this is our fault. Since we do not accept young people in our adult world, they create a world of their own."

But haven't the young always done that? Didn't we? Didn't the lady, MLA for Grand Forks-Greenwood?

Opposition stalwart Leo Nimick—who has spoken well this session, if at agonizing length—is one of the few members apparently immune to the spirit which pervades the Legislative Assembly as the end nears.

Like school children two days from a holiday, Cranbrook's gift to the House complained Thursday evening as various minor diversions impeded the flow of stern debate.

RADAR SITES BOMBED AGAIN

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. Navy jet bombers attacked four coastal radar stations in North Viet Nam today, one of them only 80 miles from China's Hainan Island. The raid was by far the deepest penetration into North Viet Nam of any of the 12 raids since Feb. 7.

WASHINGTON (AP) — At a moment of mounting crisis in the Vietnamese war, the United States was making it known in publication of an interview with Premier Chou En-lai of China, in which Chou accuses the United States of expanding aggression in Viet Nam and predicts that China and Russia will close ranks in the face of any wider conflict.

Johnson said he has no evidence so far of Communist readiness to negotiate an acceptable settlement.

Chou said "the American government will never force the South Vietnamese people and the democratic republic of Viet Nam (North Viet Nam) into negotiations by intensifying the war."

Johnson's readiness to engage personally in peace talks if his conditions are met was declared in a statement he made to a cabinet meeting Thursday and subsequently made public.

It is being circulated to American embassies abroad and broadcast around the world by the Voice of America.

Four Ku Klux Klansmen Arrested in Rights Slaying

Purchaser Seeks Damages

...slanderous inferences

A slander suit was launched today against Premier W. A. C. Bennett by George Jones, suspended government purchaser.

A writ against the premier, on behalf of Mr. Jones, was issued by the British Columbia Supreme Court this morning in Vancouver.

Mr. Jones' lawyer, D. A. Thompson of Vancouver, was reported flying to Victoria during the noon hour in a helicopter with the registered writ to personally serve it on the premier.

The news caught Premier Bennett by surprise this morning. He would only tell reporters he had not been served and he had not referred the matter to a lawyer yet.

Mr. Jones, in an interview, said he also was surprised by the timing but confirmed that he had previously instructed his lawyer to sue Premier Bennett "for damages for slander."

NO SUM

Mr. Jones said no specific sum of money has been mentioned and emphasized he was more concerned about the principle.

"Since I have been denied access to my constitutional rights to appear before the legislature to defend himself from the controversial bill to fire him" this is the only medium left to me.

"I have to establish why I am being fired.

"I can't do it in the house... so I have to do it this way."

REPUTATION AT STAKE

Mr. Jones said that one of his chief concerns was to preserve his professional reputation so that he could get a job in the future.

"Defamatory and slanderous inferences and innuendos have been repeated and republished on an occasion which is not privileged.

"I have received reports of comments made by the premier on a public occasion at a gathering of Social Credit party members at the Victoria Social Credit Association on Friday.

The premier suggested that the federal ridings could be duplicated as provincial constituencies with two members to be elected from each to the B.C. legislature.

In particular, provisions should be made for an adequate numeration prior to by-elections and general elections, he said.

"Making certain that voting lists are up to date are a necessary first step," he said.

"But I don't wish to be too critical because I am very pleased that redistribution is under consideration."

He noted that the establishment of an impartial commission's boundaries?

PROBABLE STAND

Although the premier spoke only in terms of personal preference, his views undoubtedly reflect current government thinking and the most probable course that will be adopted after the federal commission's report is made.

It would meet the requirements urged last month by The Times and several MLAs for a revamping of provincial constituencies aimed at giving more equal representation to B.C. voters generally in their provincial legislature.

At one stroke, the demands for a non-political examination of constituencies would be satisfied. In addition, the federal commission is to review boundaries every 10 years after census figures are reported, meeting another demand in the B.C. legislature this year for a systematic program of keeping

WIRE BRIEFS

Second Stroke

KINGSTON, Jamaica (Reuters) — Prime Minister Sir Alexander Bustamante, 81, suffered a second stroke Thursday night it was announced here today. He was convalescing after a mild stroke suffered Jan. 24.

LBJ Demands Law To Control Klan

LOWNDESBORO, Ala. (AP) — Four Ku Klux Klansmen from the Birmingham area were arrested by FBI agents today on charges of conspiracy in the ambush slaying of a Detroit white woman, shot to death near here Thursday night after joining a civil rights march.

President Johnson announced the arrests only 16½ hours after the assassin-type killing of Viola Gregg Liuzzo, 39, an attractive mother of five.

FBI agents arrested the four men in Birmingham on warrants issued by a federal commissioner at Montgomery.

Scores of agents who were in the Selma-Montgomery area because of the simmering racial troubles kicked up by a Negro right-to-vote drive, swarmed into an intensive investigation under direct orders from the president.

FACE CONSPIRACY CHARGE

The four white men were arrested on charges of conspiracy to violate the civil rights of the gunned victim.

They are Eugene Thomas, 43; William Orville Eaton, 41, both of Bessemer, Gary Thomas Rowe, 31, of Birmingham, and Colie Leroy Wilkins Jr., 21, of Fairfield, Ala.

President Johnson went on television to disclose the arrests after having promised the victim's anguished husband a full investigation.

In Washington, President Johnson called for legislation to control the Ku Klux Klan.

Attorney General Nicholas Katzenbach and FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover were with the president when he announced he had directed Katzenbach to begin drafting legislation "that would bring the activities of the Klan under effective control of the law."

PLANS BILL

The president said he hoped to submit the legislation as soon as the U.S. Congress acts on his voting-rights proposal. And he suggested that congressional committees might want to begin forthwith an investigation of Klan activities.

Chairman Edwin E. Willis said today he would convene his House committee on un-American activities "as soon as possible" to consider President Johnson's call for an investigation of the Klan.

Johnson labelled the Klan "a hooded society of bigots." He said:

"If any Klansmen hear my voice, this is both an appeal and a warning to get out of the Ku Klux Klan and enter decent society now, before it is too late."

The president heaped scorn on the Klan, saying that the four arrested men "struck by night, as they generally do."

The charge of conspiracy to violate civil rights is about the only way the federal government has of proceeding against the men. Murder is a state matter and any charge of that character would be a matter for Alabama.

Governor George C. Wallace, who had posted a $1,000 reward—maximum allowed by Alabama law—declined to comment on the arrests of the white-supremacist organization.

Earlier he said he regretted the slaying.

Robert M. Shelton Jr., of Tuscaloosa, Ala., Imperial Wizard of the United Klans, said he knew nothing of the slaying but "it would appear to me that according to Johnson everyone in Alabama is Ku Klux Klan men."

Mrs. Liuzzo, a student at Wayne State University, was a shuttling messenger from Montgomery to Selma.

Two bullets from a passing car slammed into Mrs. Liuzzo's

ANSWER TO AID

Targets Picked For U.S. Raids

SAIGON (Reuters)—U.S. Air Force planners have picked key road and rail targets in North Viet Nam that could be bombed at the first sign of large-scale Chinese military aid arriving in that country, informed sources said today.

The sources said the primary target would be a railway linking China and Hanoi through Lao Kay, a North Vietnamese town on the Chinese border.

The Chinese Communist party newspaper People's Daily, published in Peking, said Thursday China is ready to send men and representation in pace with population trends.

For the Greater Victoria area, it would mean a loss in the number of seats it filled in the provincial house.

SIX MEMBERS

At present six MLAs are elected by this area: three in Victoria, one each in Saanich, Oak Bay and Esquimalt territory. But there are only two federal ridings, Victoria and Esquimalt-Saanich. With dual members, this would give the area four seats in the legislature.

Under its terms of reference, the federal commission can establish any given riding boundaries to include up to 25 per cent more or less of the population in an average riding.

This would provide it with sufficient leeway in population juggling to meet often-expressed fears of interior and northern MLAs that a straight one-for-one ratio of population division in all ridings would result in complete domination of the legislature by the big cities.

NEXT SESSION

The federal redistribution commission is expected to make its report to Ottawa later this year, in plenty of time to allow the B.C. government to use its findings for amendments to the provincial constituencies at next winter's session as promised by Provincial Secretary Wesley Black earlier this week.

The premier also gave the legislature hints of his ideas this week. He told MLAs Wednesday that he personally favored the idea of "dual-member constituencies." And Thursday he emphasized that redistribution could be expected before the next provincial election but would not involve any enlargement of the house.

NANAIMO — An inquest opened here Thursday into the death of 20-year-old Christopher George Carmichael, of Lady-smith.

Carmichael, of Timberland Road, died early Thursday morning when the car in which he was a passenger smashed into an abutment of Hadlam Creek Bridge, seven miles south of here.

Driver of the car, John Douglas, 21, of Fry Street, Nanaimo, is in good condition in hospital with hip and internal injuries.

The car was travelling south on the Trans-Canada Highway.

Patrons of the nearby Cranberry Hotel rushed to help the injured men.

Carmichael was still alive. He was dead on arrival at hospital.

His death brings the toll for traffic fatalities in the Nanaimo area up to six since Jan. 1.

auto. One struck her in the neck.

The mother was driving toward Montgomery to pick up a second group of march participants. Sitting beside her was a Negro youth, 19-year-old Leroy Moton of Selma.

Maj. William O. Gray of the federalized Alabama National Guard which provided security for the march, said no guardsmen were patrolling the Selma-Montgomery highway when the killing occurred.

Gray said to his knowledge, no regular army troops were on patrol.

Johnson called up 3,000 troops to protect the capitol march, climax of a 50-mile trek from Selma.

ACTIVE IN QUARTERS

Col. Rufus Shepherd, static adjutant-general, said that guardsmen and army troops remained on active status at their quarters, however, and could not be released except by presidential order.

The victim's husband, Anthony Luzzo, a business agent for Teamsters Local 247 in Detroit, put in a call to the president and was told by an aide that Johnson would return the call.

Luzzo said he wanted to ask the president "How come?" and "Where do we go from here?"

The distraught husband said he told an unidentified presidential aide: "There are five children here and my wife died for a cause that President Johnson believes in."

Mrs. Luzzo had participated in the march.

Her slaying came less than two weeks after Rev. James J. Reeb of Boston died following a clubbing by white men in Selma. The white minister had taken part in a march also. And on Feb. 26, 26-year-old Jimmie Lee Jackson, a Negro, died of a gunshot wound suffered in violence following a night march at Marion, Ala.

LEFT THE ROAD

Moton said he heard a sound like a rock hitting the door of the car and Mrs. Luzzo slumped over. The car skidded out of the next general election.

He said he would make a statement in Victoria at the provincial Conservative executive meeting on April 3.

Present Conservative Kamloops MP Dr. Charles J. M. Willoughby has indicated he will not seek re-election.

Chamber acoustics, he admitted, aren't good, but that's not the fault of the PA system.

Combine the Efforts

THE WORLD HAS WITNESSED two space ventures within the last few days, both of which were far more than mere exercises in prestige or demonstrations of technical ability. These flights were experiments carried out with definite objectives in view, and each constituted a step forward in the scientific program of which it was a part.

The Soviet flight proved, among other things, that a man could leave his space capsule and perform certain functions outside it. The way is thus opened for the eventual space-workers who will assemble space platforms to be used in moon flights. The American venture showed that a space vehicle can be successfully directed in its flight by manual control, thus bringing nearer the day when space vehicles will be able to rendezvous with others or steer into port at a space platform.

Each of these experimental flights cost the sponsoring country many hundreds of millions of dollars. Continuation of the programs will cost many millions more. One recognizes that the programs must go on in one form or another; it is not in man's nature to turn his back on exciting new worlds of achievement. And the urge to master space is no less strong even though many more immediate projects for man's betterment could be listed as outlets for the money expended in launching.

Safe From the Citizens

THE SOCIAL CREDIT MAJORITY in the provincial legislature has ridden in a markedly roughshod manner over opposition opinion in a number of contentious debates during the current session. But however those differing with the government's stand may protest against what they see as injustice or bad policies, the fact is that the government is the legally elected administration of this province. The answer to its actions lies at the polls.

Less easy for the public to correct is the wrong inherent in the government's insistence on retaining the device of flat. This legal requirement means that any citizen who seeks to sue the government of British Columbia in the courts must first obtain the government's permission to do so. When this permission is refused, the aggrieved citizen has no recourse.

The flat is an outmoded arrangement. It derives from those far-gone days when the government was the king backed by divine right, and hence was unassailable by any citizen. In these days of democratic, elected governments such a concept has no place. The elected representatives of the people, like the people themselves, should be liable to account for their actions in court. They have no divine right as a group and should not claim it.

Mr. Bonner, however, disagrees. And Mr. Bennett and all his government members apparently support him. When Mr. Alan Macfarlane raised the matter in the legislature a few days ago his effort was rejected in dead silence by the government benches—as has happened to similar attempts in other years.

Yet Britain abolished this anachronism nearly twenty years ago. The federal government relinquished divine right in 1952. Six other Canadian provinces have done likewise. British Columbia still clings to this device for preventing citizens from bringing government into the impartial arena of the court.

Why does the Social Credit government hang on to this outworn relic? What peculiar need does it fill for Mr. Bennett's administration?

For Future Jobs

THE GREAT INDUSTRIAL EXPANSION in British Columbia in recent years was described in glowing terms in the legislature this week by Mr. Ralph Loffmark, the minister of industrial development, trade and commerce.

But the minister failed to give a satisfactory answer to critics who pointed out that the government seems to be blind to the urgent need to attract more secondary industry to the province. The best he could do was to speak vaguely about encouraging "power-oriented industries" to locate here as well as about the primary industries which have already come, not so much because of government encouragement as because the resources are here to exploit.

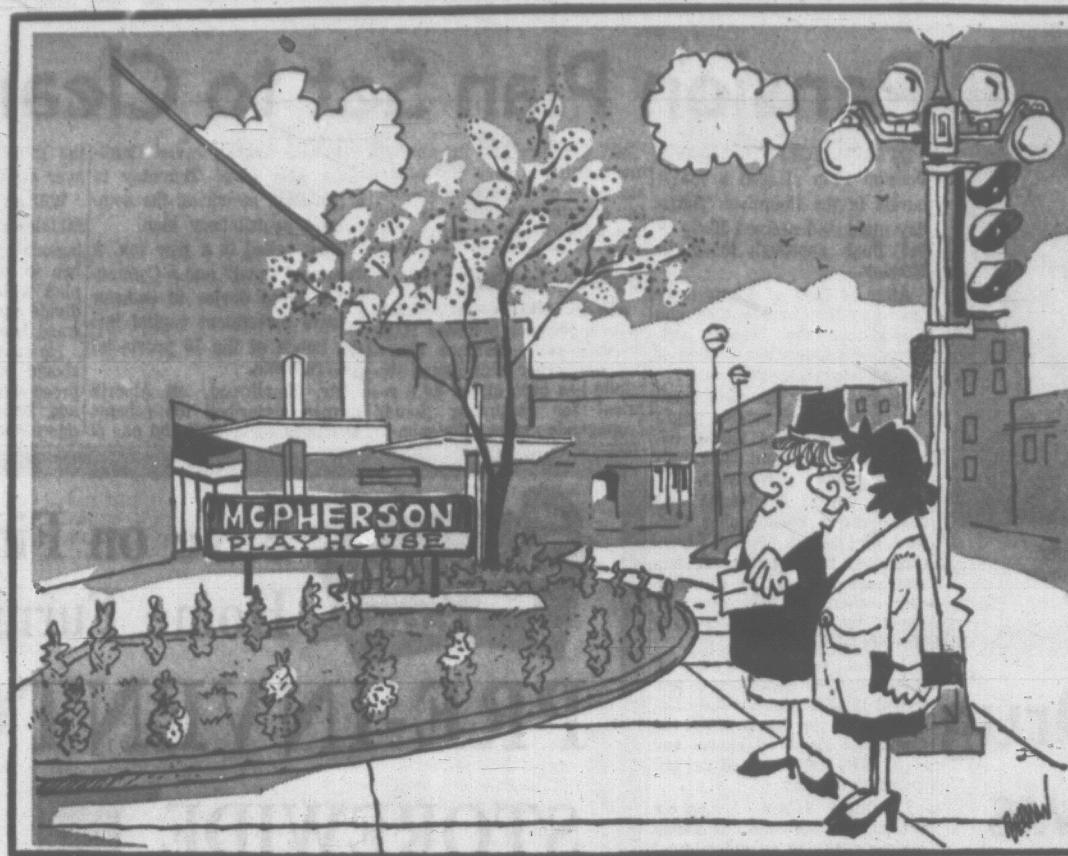

Mr. Loffmark also managed to work into his speech the admission that there will be little surplus power for new industry by the time the hydro-electric projects now under way are completed. This is another way of saying that the Social Credit power export policies are also job export policies.

The minister's answer to requests for an economic council and other measures to promote secondary industry was that $50,000 was being appropriated to make industrial and economic studies. This is a pitiful effort compared with the millions which the other nine provinces are spending every year to attract new manufacturing plants in order to diversify their economies.

No one will deny the great economic benefits which British Columbians are gaining from the vast amounts of capital which are being poured into the development of primary resources—principally the forest industries, power projects and mineral exploitation. But the time is already in sight when this infusion of capital will begin to taper off. The resources are not inexhaustible, they will support only a certain amount of development and when the limit is reached other enterprises will be needed to provide jobs and income for the expanding work force.

One does not need to be a prophet to see that within a relatively few years at the current rate of disposal of some of the province's resource assets there will be little left to sell, less with which to attract new primary industry investment. In preparation for that time and while it has the financial capability to do it, the government should be bending every effort toward the creation of a well-rounded, thoroughly diversified economy.

OTTAWA GUIDEPOST

Goals: Breath-Taking, Perhaps Impossible

THE agonizing and almost obscene spectacle of Canadian politics dwarfs all the constructive news from a highly fortunate nation. But the political uncertainties are dwarfed, in turn, by a process far larger, more important and even more uncertain. Behind all the temporary outward convulsions in Ottawa today looms a hidden challenge unlike any faced by the nation in the past. We have hardly begun to grasp it yet, much less to master it.

When Dr. John Deutsch's Economic Council filed its first report a few weeks ago only a few sophisticated economists and businessmen realized its meaning. Before long we shall all have to realize it and act on it or, if we fail to act, must suffer some very grim consequences.

In a word, the Economic Council tells us that we must undertake, during the next five years, a prodigy without precedent in our experience. If we cannot perform it, all our brave dreams of a good and prosperous society will disintegrate.

New Jobs, More Trade

The goals set by the Council are breath-taking in their magnitude and may be impossible—a sustained rate of economic growth higher than we have ever known, a vast re-organization of industry, the creation of at least a million new jobs before 1970, a rapid expansion of foreign trade and, under all the resulting inflationary pressures, a system of stable prices.

Prodigious as this task must be, and little as it is understood by most politicians, it already has become the central test of the political system. From now

French Editorials

Moncton L'Evangeline

Once full recognition is won for the French language in Canada, French-English relations will be improved and the danger of Quebec leaving Confederation will be lessened.

The possibility of a political union between Nova Scotia and New Brunswick will also draw closer to realization. The Acadians of New Brunswick cast a cold eye on this latter prospect because experience proves that in such a situation rights based on proportionate size are not always respected. French and English would have to enjoy equal rights under such a union and would have to be able to develop in accordance with their respective traditions.

There also has been some suggestion of annexation of New Brunswick by Quebec in the event, especially, that Quebec separates from Canada. This suggestion has created no more enthusiasm among New Brunswick's French than it has among the English residents.

Montreal Le Devoir

With the arrival on the scene of the Fulton-Favreau formula for constitutional amendments, the question of federal-provincial conferences becomes a matter of direct and vital importance. No one, except government insiders, will ever know in detail how Quebec went about agreeing to the formula which was approved by federal and provincial representatives at a 1964 conference and which now must receive legislative approval all round.

One can speculate, without wanting to discredit anyone, that the negotiations got to a state so technical that almost no one, except the ministers and advisers directly responsible, could understand in detail the step-by-step progress of the negotiations. Unfortunately, the way this whole conference mechanism works, the decisions taken in such secret sessions are practically irrevocable. Premiers agreeing to things at conferences like this find themselves bound as a matter of honor and prestige. The legislatures, which usually have first say, figure simply as approvers of the more secondary aspects of the decisions already taken.

The country thus can find itself bound by very important conference decisions unless public opinion and the legislatures have been able to make themselves heard. Gradually a democracy geared to executive supremacy is coming into being, and this is a deviation from our system of government.

on the performance of every government will be judged not by vague slogans but by detailed arithmetic. For the first time Canada has a measuring stick.

It also has a kind of five-year plan, tacitly accepted by all political parties. None of them denies the Council's analysis. None will dare to admit that it cannot fulfill the goals. The only practical question is whether the political apparatus can carry a burden at once appallingly heavy and exceedingly delicate.

As it stands now, the apparatus is quite unfit for a responsibility requiring the strongest possible management. A minority government and a Parliament squandering all its energies on internecine war obviously are ill-prepared for the trial now immediately ahead of the nation. Even if the machinery of administration were in perfect working order the outcome would be dubious. In its present creaking, dilapidated state the machinery will assure certain failure.

Under the best of economic conditions, the conditions enjoyed in the last four years, it would be hard enough to hit the targets of the Economic Council's report but those conditions are changing for the worse, as another shaking document informs us.

Though the annual report written by Mr. Louis Rasmussen, governor of the Bank of Canada, is couched in typically mild language, it says in effect that the road in front of us will be much harder than the road we have travelled since the last business recession.

It must be harder because we have almost used up all the slack and elbow-room of the economy. As Mr. Rasmussen puts it, "the absorption of the remaining amounts of unused resources in the economy will be more difficult and . . . we shall have to rely to an increasing extent on improving the adaptability of our growing resources in order to avoid serious bottleneck problems and price pressures."

This masterpiece of under-statement identifies the core of the nation's dilemma. We do not lack resources, material and human, but we lack, so far, the ability to put them together to produce the economic growth needed for our exploding population.

Costs of Mismanagement

If we continue to mismanage this synthesis of men and materials we shall have acute shortages of manpower in some areas, surpluses in others, rising prices sure to reduce our exports and then intolerable foreign trade deficits sure to undermine, probably to devalue, our currency and the people's savings.

In language much tougher than Mr. Rasmussen's, the Economic Council warns Canada that it must out-perform all the other western industrial nations in economic growth if it is to solve its unique native problem—the problem of a nation naturally rich, but rich only so long as it knows how to concert its resources smoothly, to mesh the gears of a high-powered vehicle.

It is the danger of clashing gears that chiefly worries the Council and now is beginning to appear. A nation with substantial unemployment finds itself without sufficient skilled workers in the right places at the right time with the right wages. It must therefore launch a crash program to re-train a large part of its labor force and, secondly, it must make sure that when workers are re-trained they will move to the right places.

Re-training and the mobility of labor are the first essential steps but, up to now, they have not been taken in any adequate measure. A government completely absorbed by the necessity of mere survival and a bureaucracy which instinctively distrusts new ideas combine to blur the goals and frustrate their achievement.

We have wasted several years because, in the middle of a lavish boom, we lacked an Economic Council of non-partisan experts to give us the facts. We lurched forward, dizzy with success. The massive readjustment now facing us should have been started long ago and will be all the more difficult because it has been delayed. And there is no certainty that it will even begin, with sufficient force, to prevent an economic crisis before 1970.

Uncontrollable Conditions

If it does begin, if it is carried through with all the harsh surgery proposed by the Economic Council, still the great Canadian transition will remain at the mercy of uncontrollable world conditions.

All the targets are judged to be attainable in a buoyant world economy of constantly expanding international trade, stable currencies and same policies among the major states. As this observer was to find in Washington, and will try to explain in later reports, these happy conditions are by no means guaranteed. On the contrary, the chances of avoiding a world-wide monetary break-down, particularly dangerous to Canada, must be considered no better than even.

Biased?

After reading Audrey St. John's criticism of "The Helress," I was very pleased that I had attended the opening performance and enjoyed it with many others.

Mrs. Johnson so often seems to "pan" productions by the Victoria Theatre Guild, that her poor review seemed to appear biased.—Olive Gregson, 2160 Beach Drive.

What It Says

After reading the United Church report account in Tuesday's Times I shall be anxious awaiting their next starting out on some outmoded portion of the ministry of the Christian church.

Perhaps the parishioners and priests of the church might take another long look at the Word of God and find out exactly what it does say instead of going off ill-informed and from this unenviable position teaching the traditions of men rather than the oracles of God.—Helen M. Olden, 3237 Curran.

Liquor Law Enforcement

It is gratifying to note that the proprietor of the Crystal Garden took it upon himself to enforce a liquor law that the police seem to have been unable to enforce. Maybe this action will stir them to proceed with the many other places whose proprietor are flagrantly disobeying our liquor laws.—Law Abiding Citizen.

Looking Back

From The Times of March 26, 1880.

A move in the legislature to amend the Coal Mines Regulation Act to exclude Chinese persons from working underground was defeated in the legislature. The vote was 16 to 9. The move followed petitions from white coal miners in Nanaimo and Wellington which said Chinese persons were carelessly underground and were the cause of terrible accidents. The member for Nanaimo, Mr. Thomson, introduced the move and debated it for three days.

Negro Vote Potential

By JOSEPH ALSOP
from Washington

A GREAT DEAL of exaggerated nonsense is being talked about the President's big Negro voting bill, by its proponents as well as its opponents. Each side of the argument is describing the bill as "revolutionary." It is not and cannot be. The point is that even in the Southern States where the most determined and ruthless efforts are made to prevent Negro voting, the Negroes are in a decided minority. Mississippi has the highest share of Negro adults, with 36 per cent. Alabama has 26 per cent; Louisiana, 28 per cent. South Carolina, where there has been much less obstruction of Negro registration, has 29 per cent.

Previously there are some counties and other Southern States where the potential Negro voters constitute numerical majorities. But in the entire South there is only one congressional district with a potential Negro majority—the Mississippi district of Democratic Rep. James Whit-

Alsop

Each of these leaders of the SNICK-CORE type try to put over an extreme program (which is quite likely) and if the Southern Negro voters follow these leaders (which is most unlikely), the result will be to consolidate the white majority in opposition.

The new Negro voters who will be put on the rolls by the bill now before Congress, in fact, have everything to gain by imitating the firmness in defence of their rights as citizens, combined with moderation in all other respects which has been shown by the new Negro voters of Macon county, Alabama. Here the registration fight was won. A mixed county government was elected. And the whole outlook is better.

This does not mean, however, that compliance with the new voting bill will not quite significantly change the political complexion of a good many states in the South. At a guess, the bill may add 150,000 Negro voters to the rolls in Alabama, perhaps another 100,000 in Georgia, about 125,000 in Louisiana and 75,000 in South Carolina.

In Mississippi, and perhaps in Alabama and parts of Louisiana, social intimidation will no doubt hold down the total. But even in Mississippi, Negroes registered, who now comprise less than 7 per cent of Negro adults, should certainly rise to 30 or 40 per cent, which could put close to 100,000 additional on the Mississippi rolls.

Disinclined to Register

The foregoing guesses or estimates, it should be added, are based on the expectation that percentages of Negroes registered will always be less than percentage of whites registered, even where there is no intimidation and registration is freely permitted. Poor people everywhere register less than middle class and rich people, and in the South Negroes are very poor.

Thus the final result of the present bill, four to six years from now, may be a change in pattern giving the following approximate proportions of Negro voters in the three most difficult states: Mississippi, 20 per cent; Alabama, 15 to 18 per cent; Louisiana, 16 to 19 per cent.

With the above-mentioned shares of the total state-wide vote, the Alabama, Louisiana and Mississippi Negroes will be important as potential bloc-voters. More and more politicians will tend to imitate the late Governor Earl Long, who always got a heavy Negro vote in Louisiana because he took a reasonably decent line about the color problem.

But the election of any Negro to a state-wide office will still be a practical impossibility for a very long time to come. And white politicians will still have to be careful how they imitate Earl Long's tactics; for the late DeLoessie Morrison was beaten in the Louisiana primary by Governor John McKeithen, mainly on the ground that Morrison was said to have all the Negro votes in his pocket.

Loud Voice of Prejudice

As between the two parties, most of whom are hot-tempered Goldwaterites, will almost unavoidably take a last-ditch segregationist stance. They will not have a monopoly on continuing appeals to prejudice, but they will appeal the loudest. In some states they may perhaps appeal successfully, too, as the Morrison-McKeithen race suggests.

Republicans will make the loudest appeals to prejudice, the Democrats will almost automatically be forced to move to a more moderate position, as they have already done in Georgia, for example. And overall, passage of the President's big bill should be a long stride toward assuring the Southern Negroes ordinary citizen rights. But the stride is likely to stop there.

HEROIN SEIZED

Montreal Drug 'Fame' Grows

MONTREAL (CP)—A major heroin seizure has put Montreal back in the spotlight as one of the major drug-smuggling capitals of the world.

The RCMP intercepted $25,000,000 worth of the narcotic Thursday destined for the United States underworld but this was only the second largest in Montreal—and Canadian—history.

Two French citizens employed by Air France, the French state-owned airline, and a Montreal truck driver were arrested but another man believed to be the courier managed to escape.

"We believe it was being transported to the United States," Assistant RCMP Commissioner J. W. R. Bordeau said in announcing the seizure.

Roger Loiseleur, 50, a steward with Air France and resident of Surry-en-Brie near Paris, was charged with possession of eight pounds of pure heroin.

Georges Aubert, 40, of the Paris suburb of Dorval Davelin—a purser with Air France—and Rolland DeleColle, 49, a truck driver from suburban St. Leonard de Port Maurice were charged with conspiracy and possession of narcotics for the purpose of trafficking.

No Stunts In Space, U.S. Aim

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson paid tribute to the Gemini astronauts today and said the U.S. space program is aimed at planned and ordered progress—not "stunts and spectacles."

Honoring Virgil I. (Gus) Grissom and John W. Young in a White House ceremony, the president said U.S. space aims are peaceful and geared to the benefit of mankind.

Johnson did not mention specifically the Soviet Union's space flight last week, in which one cosmonaut climbed out of the capsule to walk along in space.

Grissom and Young piloted the first U.S. two-man Gemini capsule three times around the world Tuesday.

"We're not concerned with stunts and spectacles, but we are concerned with sure and steady success," Johnson said.

Grissom and Young flew to nearby Andrews Air Force Base from Cape Kennedy, then switched to a helicopter for the hop to the White House.

With their wives, children, parents and an escort of space agency officials, the smiling astronauts were also greeted by applauding, sign-waving spectators, including children released from school.

Thousands more welcomed them along Pennsylvania Avenue after the medal presentation in the White House.

Reds Warn Against Meet In W. Berlin

LONDON (Reuters)—Russia has warned United States, Britain and France that they will bear the responsibility for a planned meeting of the West German Bundestag in Berlin next month, the Soviet news agency Tass reported today.

The Soviet foreign ministry today published the text of the protest note, sent March 23 to the American, British and French embassies in Moscow, in connection with the planned meeting.

"The intentionally provocative character of that venture is beyond doubt, as West Berlin, as it is known, has never been and is not part of the German Federal Republic (West Germany), and any activity of the parliamentary and administrative institutions of the German Federal Republic in that city, situated outside the frontiers of the German Federal Republic, is illegal," the note said.

The note stated that "the provocative act, planned by the authorities of the German Federal Republic, is aimed at aggravating the situation in the centre of Europe."

Pension Plan Set to Clear Last House Hurdle

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canada Pension Plan cleared a major hurdle in the Commons Thursday night and seemed likely to get final approval today or Monday.

After 20 days of debate dominated by the Conservatives and Creditistes, the House completed clause-by-clause study of the massive 125-section bill.

That left only the third reading stage, which seldom takes up more than one sitting because more stringent rules limit speeches and amendments.

Only the 13 Creditistes and Conservative backbencher Clifford Smallwood (Battle River-Camrose) have announced they will vote against the contributory scheme. They may be joined by a few Conservative and Social Credit MPs.

Liberal backbenchers thumped their desks and a few patted Health Minister Judy LaMarsh on the back after the Commons approved clause one—the title—and reported the bill for third reading.

Creditiste House Leader Gilles Gregoire said his group intends to move an amendment today calling for payment of $100 monthly old age assistance to all persons aged 65 and over. Such an amendment likely would be ruled out of order because it would increase government expenditures.

Border Sealed Off

ADDIS ABABA (AP)—Information Minister Menasse Haile Tolol da press conference Thursday the border with Somali Republic has been closed as a reprisal for continuing Somali propaganda against Ethiopia.

He was among several critics who spoke Thursday in a last-ditch attack on the compulsory contributory plan.

They called it a new tax, a "national fraud" and a Communist-inspired device to transfer private investment capital into the hands of the 10 provincial governments.

Mr. Smallwood, an Alberta farmer, described the scheme as "pure socialism" and one of the greatest "political frauds" ever attempted in Canada.

William H. A. Thomas (PC—Middlesex West) said the opting-out clause permitting Quebec to set up its own pension plan with similar features will divide the country and lead toward two associate states.

He said the government should call an election before proceeding with either the Canada Pension Plan or the bill due for study following the pension plan that will allow the provinces to stay out of other programs of the cabinet. The government hopes to start collecting contributions from employees and employers next Jan. 1.

Death Threats Terrorize Dorion Inquiry Witness

MONTREAL (CP)—Threats have been made against the life of murder suspect Robert Gignac, his lawyer said Thursday night.

Lawyer Yves Mayrand said Gignac, a key witness in the Dorion inquiry, has been warned of the underworld threats.

Gignac, one of three men charged with capital murder in the gangland shooting last fall of Aime (Rocky) Brunette, a nightclub waiter, has been transferred to downtown Quebec Provincial Police cells from Bordeaux Jail in north-end Montreal.

Police refused to say why he was moved but Mr. Mayrand said he believes it could have something to do with the threats.

... new jail

However, he said Gignac was extremely well protected in the provincially-operated Bordeaux Jail and that his cell was often changed as a precaution.

Also charged with murder in Brunette's death are Robert Collin, 28, and Maurice Poirier, 35, both of Montreal.

Mr. Mayrand said there are two possible reasons for threats against Gignac:

One could be that some persons feared he might change the testimony he gave before the Dorion hearing into alleged bribery and coercion attempts involving federal government ministerial aides.

The other possible reason was that there might be fears about Gignac's testimony at his forthcoming capital murder trial, Mr. Mayrand said.

His testimony at the Dorion inquiry concerned bail fund for Lucien Rivard, suspected narcotics smuggler who remains at large after escaping from Bordeaux March 2. Gignac is accused of perjury in his Dorion testimony.

Rivard went over the wall of Montreal's Bordeaux Jail March 2 before he could be extradited to the United States on federal ministerial aides of attempted bribery and coercion in the Lucien Rivard affair.

Nevertheless, Chief Justice Frederic Dorion may be back at work next week to hear again from murder suspect Robert Gignac, 35, who testified earlier he was a go-between in efforts to spring Rivard from jail on bail last summer.

Chief Justice Dorion informed lawyers at the inquiry that he may want them for a day or two next week. He didn't elaborate.

However, there are reports that Gignac, charged with perjury after his January appearance before the inquiry, wants to testify again. Gignac was said by Liberal organizer Guy Masson to have been the source of information that $60,000 was available for the Liberal party if Rivard's extradition was blocked.

Justice Minister Favreau was Thursday's main witness—the 65th in 36 days of hearings here and in Montreal. Final argument is scheduled for Quebec City starting April 5.

Mr. Favreau swore he decided personally Sept. 18 against laying attempted bribery charges against Raymond Denis, then executive assistant to the immigration minister.

He acknowledged that in reaching his decision he hadn't read all the RCMP reports on nine persons questioned.

Labor Talks Its Way Out Of Tory Trap

LONDON (AP)—A 20 1/2-hour government filibuster in the House of Commons ended today with a triumphal escape from a political trap set by the opposition Conservative party.

The Labor talkathon warded off the prospects of having to vote against pensions for some 250,000 old folks, many of them in their 80s, who aren't covered by the 1948 National Insurance Act.

The thought of having to face the next national election with such a mark on its record chilled the government.

When the gabfest reached 10 a.m., the trap snapped shut, empty. Under the rules of Commons, when an all-night session continues until that hour, the coming day's business is canceled.

That killed the pension bill, which was scheduled to come up today and now falls back to the end of a long queue.

CHRISTINA LAKE

$40 Million Mill Licence Sought

CHRISTINA LAKE, B.C. (CP) — Three Vancouver businessmen have announced plans for a $40,000,000 pulp mill in this small centre near Grand Forks.

A. L. Jordan, president of Rupert Enterprises Ltd., said the plan depends on provincial government approval of an application for a 6,000,000-acre pulpwood harvesting licence area.

He said the mill would employ 800 men.

Mr. Jordan, with co-directors Travers Steeves and L. H. Zogas, outlined plans to about 100 Christina Lake residents in the Christina Lake community hall.

They said financing has not been arranged, but will be "no problem."

Mr. Jordan said the company has applied for a licence for an area embracing Princeton, Keremeos, Oliver, Osoyoos, Kelowna, Vernon, Armstrong, Enderby, Salmon Arm, Mindway, Greenwood, Grand Forks, Cascade, Christina Lake, Rosolland, Trail, Fruitvale, Salmo and Apex.

He said the application to the provincial lands and forests department was made after a two-year feasibility study.

Mr. Steeves told the meeting: "We have a company which is going to build this mill for us, and upon receiving approval from the minister we are ready to proceed."

IN U.S.

Moonlighters Equal Jobless

WASHINGTON (AP) — There are almost as many Americans with two jobs as there are with none, the labor department said today in a new study on "moonlighting," the current popular term for working at an extra job.

But if all the moonlighters quit their second job, it would not significantly help the country's 4,000,000 unemployed, the report said.

"Comparatively few jobless workers could or would take the secondary jobs held by dual job-holders."

Nor does the evidence indicate there would be any big increase in moonlighting if the federal standard work week were cut to 35 from 40 hours, as organized labor is urging Congress to do.

"Available information does not show that persons with shorter hours per week are necessarily more likely to be dual job-holders than those working longer hours," said the report.

"In fact, the dual job-holding rate for persons who worked 41 hours a week or more was a little higher than for persons who worked 35 to 40 hours."

The high rate of moonlighting among such public service employees as postal workers, firemen and policemen indicates the incidence of moonlighting has a lot to do with working schedules in the main job, the report said.

A policeman or fireman on a night shift could more easily arrange a second job than someone whose main job is in normal daytime hours.

The report, based on a 1964 survey, showed a total of 3,700,000 persons with more than one job, a decline of about 200,000 from 1963.

Many of the moonlighters worked at a second job; they created themselves and this was a major reason dual job-holding had little effect on unemployment.

"Nearly one-third of the secondary jobs are filled by self-employed persons who created them for their own economic advancement. Relatively few unemployed persons have the required ability, experience and inclination to step into these jobs, to say nothing of the financial resource frequently necessary," the report said.

"Furthermore, unemployed persons primarily seek full-time jobs, but the average dual job-holder worked only about 13 hours a week at his second job," it added.

Pine Point Mine Advances Debt Payment

Commencement of debt repayment on a $22,000,000 debenture issue by Pine Point Mines Ltd. has been advanced to Oct. 31 this year from April, 1966, president William G. Jewitt announced Thursday.

Mr. Jewitt said earlier-than-expected production and a shortage of lead on the world market has allowed Pine Point to show an early profit.

The debenture was issued a year ago for development of zinc and lead holdings near the south shore of Great Slave Lake.

Production began in late 1964, with ore moving south for smelting at the Canadian Mining and Smelting Co. Ltd. operation at Trail.

When Thomson's latest daily, the Reading Evening Post, begins publication in September, it will be "the most up-to-date newspaper in Britain and possibly in the world," he says.

The organization also announced it has purchased another group of provincial weeklies, controlled by the Berkshire County Advertiser. Earlier this week, Thomson gained control of the Chester Chronicle and Associated Newspapers, one of the oldest groups of weeklies in Britain.

When Thomson's latest daily, the Reading Evening Post, begins publication in September, it will be "the most up-to-date newspaper in Britain and possibly in the world," he says.

The company's 59th annual report said the earnings compared to $29,823,000 in 1963 and were equal to $2.35 a share.

$39 Million Profit

TRAIL, B.C. (CP) — Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company of Canada Ltd. today reported net earnings of $39,136,600 for 1964, up 31 per cent over the previous year and the largest for the company since 1951.

The company's 59th annual report said the earnings compared to $29,823,000 in 1963 and were equal to $2.35 a share.

House Rules Compromise Submitted

OTTAWA (CP) — Speaker Alan MacNaughton placed a compromise set of Commons rules before the House today, revamping committee structure and streamlining publications.

Negotiations are expected to be undertaken aimed at getting the Commons to approve the changes early next week, before the current parliamentary session concludes.

Speaker MacNaughton reported that the Hansard record of Commons debates is entering the computer age at the next session. The daily printing will be done by the Queen's Printer using a computer to set the type.

The rule changes adopt part of earlier recommendations of Speaker MacNaughton's special committee on rules reform, proposing 15 special committees be established within 10 days of the start of each session. These committees are to be smaller in membership than the present ones.

Next Attack To End Ties — Cambodia

PHNOM PENH (Reuters) — Cambodia's head of state, Prince Norodom Sihanouk, said in a speech published here today he will break off diplomatic relations with the United States "if they cause the further loss of a single Cambodian life."

Sihanouk was commenting on a reported South Vietnamese attack March 21 against the village of Preah Trohing in Pot province.

His speech, made Wednesday at Samrong Changkal in Siemreap province, was published today by the Cambodian press agency.

"We are not sure that there were American pilots aboard the aircraft that machine-gunned the village," Sihanouk said.

But he said he is giving a final and formal warning to "the American imperialists" in telling them for the last time that Cambodia will break off diplomatic relations with the United States "at the next attack on a Cambodian life."

MILK GETS NEW PRICE SUPPORTS

OTTAWA (CP) — A new dairy policy designed to give producers of milk and cream for manufacturing purposes a price of $3.50 a hundredweight was announced in the Commons today by Agriculture Minister Harry Hays.

The minister said the increased subsidies will cost between $65,000,000 and $70,000,000 in the first 11 months. He was replying to Douglas Harkness (PC—Calgary North).

He also announced plans to establish a Canadian dairy commission which, "working in co-operation with the provinces, would have responsibility for the over-all relationship between governments and the dairy industry."

VANCOUVER (CP) — RCMP are investigating allegations of voting irregularities in the 1963 federal election.

C. C. Locke, counsel for the Nemeth royal commission inquiring into the allegations, said Thursday the first phase of the commission's inquiry is to end today because RCMP are investigating "certain information."

He said the police are concerned with aspects of the original allegations which suggested certain persons were responsible for irregular voting procedures.

"Results of the police work could provide significant information for the inquiry," he said, but would comment no further.

Hearings opened Thursday before Mr. Justice Nathan Nemeth of the B.C. Supreme Court, appointed by the federal government to investigate charges that six B.C. unions supported New Democratic Party candidates in 1963 with fraudulent votes.

First witness was Edward Anglin, assistant chief electoral officer, who testified mistakes made on federal voters' lists could be the result of deliberate cheating.

As the hearing opened, lawyer Tom Berger was present for the B.C. Labor Council and John Laxton for the New Democratic Party. Ormond Turner, columnist for The Province,

Feudal System 'Must Go' At Union Bay

UNION BAY—People here are living under a latter-day feudal system totally unacceptable by any modern social standards.

Neville Shanks, NDP provincial candidate in the Comox riding, told a meeting of local residents they were bound by the chains of feudalism.

He said under present circumstances whereby they own their homes but not the land on which the homes are situated means they are not eligible to vote on school matters or running of the district.

Neither are they eligible for homeowners' grants.

All the land in the area is owned by Canadian Collieries Resources Ltd.

REGIONAL AID PROGRAM SENT TO CONGRESS

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson asked Congress Thursday to vote a broad program to combat the problems of economically backward areas of the United States at a cost of nearly $500,000,000 a year.

Their talks, Tass said, were held in a "warm, friendly atmosphere" — boycotted by seven of the 26 invited parties — contributed to a split in the world movement.

Kashtan and Morgan were received Wednesday by party ideologists Mikhail Suslov and Boris Ponomaryev, both Soviet central committee secretaries.

Kashtan and Morgan agreed with

Nevada Atom Tests Go Underground

WASHINGTON (AP) — Far beneath the Nevada desert, the United States has developed means of simulating the altitude conditions a nuclear-tipped missile would encounter if detonated at nearly 100 miles above the earth.

This was learned in an interview with Brig. Gen. Delmar L. Crowson, director of the Atomic Energy Commission's division of military application.

He also said that deep-drilling techniques developed for underground nuclear tests at Nevada and elsewhere have a rich potential pay-off for peace-time industry, especially the oil and construction industries.

Crowson said one of the major techniques developed for underground testing is the carving out of huge subterranean "rooms," with tunnels radiating from them, much like spokes of a wheel. These rooms range up to 900 cubic yards in size. Nearly all air can be pumped out of large-diameter pipes in the rooms to create vacuum conditions. And in the rooms, weapons devices can be detonated and intact weapons exposed to the detonation of others — under conditions simulating an altitude of up to 400,000 or 500,000 feet.

Returns to Force

VANCOUVER (CP) — Const. Ron Magill, suspended from the Vancouver police force Feb. 15 when he was accused of making a false statement and insubordination, was exonerated Thursday and reinstated. Magill is president of the 750-member police union.

A model was constructed and tested in NRC tanks. Canadian Patents and Development Limited, a subsidiary of NRC, has applied for a patent.

The platform is supported by a double-walled cylinder perforated with three-foot tubes. A core inside the cylinder provides buoyancy so that about 25 feet of the structure will float above the water.

Waves hitting the cylinder slosh into it through the tubes. This sets up turbulence inside the cylinder which has the effect of cushioning the blow of the waves. As the water runs out again, the whole structure is steadied.

NRC has no immediate plans to build a full-scale marine floating platform, but its design can be licensed for private builders.

Alderman Asks Cathedral Hill Commercial Use

By AB KENT

Cathedral Hill precinct should be thrown open to commercial development, Ald. Geoffrey Edgeclow urged Thursday.

"Why are we still calling it a precinct?" he demanded of aldermen at city council meeting.

"That was when we were considering putting city hall there, four years ago."

"We are just holding up progress of business that wants to expand there. We decided not to put city hall there. What is the reason for holding up development now?" the alderman asked.

"We want to develop it properly," chairman of zoning Ald. M. H. Mooney said.

The precinct is bounded by McClure properties on the west side of Bianshard, part of Burett, Vancouver and Fort Streets.

LAW COURTS

It contains Christ Church Cathedral, Pioneer Square, the Law Courts, the new YM-YWCA complex and Royal Theatre, as well as a number of parking lots and land being used temporarily for commercial and multiple dwelling purposes.

Object for its development is to create an area in harmony with what is there permanently, provide for open, green spaces and make something of special significance of Cathedral Hill, an attractive focal point for the downtown area.

"We can't just open the doors and let any old business go into this area," Ald. Mooney protested, mentioning used car dealers and junk yards.

"We want it set up in a way to complement the city."

BIG BUILDINGS

"I don't think it's a precinct any longer," Ald. Edgeclow argued. "People want to build big buildings there and we can get the taxes."

"What reason can we give people who want to build on the edge of a commercial area?" Ald. Edgeclow asked.

He mentioned Nordic House Ltd., which wishes to erect a high-rise apartment building on Courtney at Bianshard, opposite the Law Courts and immediately behind the theatre.

Advisory planning commission, which recommended that council reject a Nordic House application for rezoning — and council later complied — is re-evaluating the whole precinct.

The commission asked council to table any further applications for rezoning until the study is done.

NEW MAYOR of Edmonton is Alderman Vince Dantzer, 41-year-old lawyer, who was elected by city council to succeed William Hawrelak who was disqualified under the city act.

Aldermen Austin Curtis and A. W. Toone agreed the planning was for the good of Victoria as a whole.

BID REJECTED

Council also endorsed a planning commission recommendation to reject a bid by Jameson Motors Ltd. to zone the southwest corner of Broughton and Bianshard light industrial, even though it is part of the precinct.

"If we rezoned this to light industrial someone could put a factory in there," Ald. Ceci Parrott said.

Rezoning would permit the garage to improve its appearance on Bianshard, opposite the theatre.

"I can't imagine that anything they do would not be an improvement," Ald. Edgeclow said. "It would be far better than it is now."

TAXPAYER VIEW

Ald. Mooney objected to Ald. Edgeclow saying "anything they did would be an improvement. What is done has to be better for the city. That's what we have to do when we are planning — not just to make it better, but to make it good."

"We have to think of the taxpayer, not just the city," Ald. Edgeclow said.

"I believe everything we do is for the taxpayers. I cannot accept that we are not considering the taxpayers," Ald. Mooney retorted.

Mayor Wilson said the firm had been given opportunity to make a submission directly to council and declined to appear.

BOSTON PAPER SAYS:

Emms Will Take Over Bruins from Patrick

BOSTON (UPI)—The Boston Record American said today that Leighton (Hap) Emms, a 60-year-old electrical contractor and owner of the Niagara Falls (Ont.) Flyers, will be the next general manager of the Boston Bruins of the National Hockey League.

He would succeed Lynn Patrick,

Bruins' owner, Weston Adams, who announced Thursday he was going to shake up his front office in an attempt to get back on the winning track, declined comment on the report.

"I don't care to comment on it right now. We will try to present a new lineup after the season ends Sunday, and that's all I'll say about the matter," Adams said.

From his Ontario office, Emms was quoted as saying, "It all depends. There are a lot of 'ifs' to be worked out. Right now, I don't think this is definite. We've talked about it. In fact, we've talked about various things."

Emms said he thought the Bruins could once again become an NHL powerhouse.

Another rumor had Emms bringing Bill Long, his Ontario coach, to Boston to replace Bruins' coach, Milt Schmidt.

CUP PLAYOFFS

Detroit to Open Against Chicago

MONTREAL (CP)—The Stanley Cup hockey playoffs open Thursday, April 1, in Montreal and Detroit.

The Red Wings settled the playoff schedule Thursday night by downing New York Rangers 7-4 in Detroit to clinch the National Hockey League pennant and win the right to meet the third-place Chicago Black Hawks in the semi-final A play-off necessary.

Montreal Canadiens, who have clinched second place in the final standings, will meet the fourth-place Toronto Maple Leafs in the semi-final B series.

Both semi-finals, as well as the finals which will begin no later than Saturday, April 17, are best-of-seven affairs.

The semi-finals will be a replay of last spring's playoffs.

Last year Toronto eliminated Montreal and then won its third straight Stanley Cup by downing Detroit, semi-final victors over Chicago, in the finals.

Following is the schedule for the two semi-final series:

Rigid Defences, Rough Play Help Trim Soccer Crowds

LONDON (Reuters)—Latest critic of the present defensive trend in modern soccer is Hans Bangerter, secretary-general of the Union of European Football Associations, who says in the current issue of the union's bulletin:

"Football fans do not want to see rigid defensive tactics—they want goals and live, thrilling football dominated by attacks."

SCORING CHAMP... ARRIVES THURSDAY

Rocks Sign Davis

Terry Davis, the Inter-City Lacrosse League's scoring champion, has been acquired by Victoria Shamrocks.

Davis' signing was announced this morning by Doug Fletcher, Shamrock executive director and chairman of the team's player acquisition committee.

Davis, who played with Nanaimo for the past two seasons, makes his home in Whitchurch, Ont. He is due to arrive in Victoria next Thursday.

Freshman coach Jim McNeill was elated at the thought of having Davis in Shamrock livery.

"Terry should give us a great odd-man play. He's a guy who can make it work," said McNeill.

Davis, a bantamweight with a heavy-weight's shoulders, topped the ICLL scoring table last season with 45 goals and 63 assists in 29 games. He captured the Hud-leston Memorial Trophy with a sensational year-end spurt that saw him score 62 points in his last 12 games.

Fletcher dispelled rumors that Davis would be unable to play because of a foot injury suffered in an industrial mishap.

"Terry told me that the fleshy tip of one of his big toes was nipped off," said Fletcher. "He doesn't think it will affect his running at all."

McNeill said he "would like to play Davis on a line with some Nanaimo players." He declined to name the players he had in mind.

A number of other Nanaimo players are being sought by Shamrocks since the up-Island team withdrew from the ICLL.

McNeill has been putting about 16 players through training paces at Oak Bay Junior High. Shamrocks will move into Memorial Arena as soon as the Western Hockey League playoffs have been completed.

'Big Three' Power Wings to NHL Title

DETROIT (CP)—The home-free Detroit Red Wings can start counting their loot today.

They will be busy calculating their share of the $40,500 pot to be split into approximately 18 equal portions as their reward for coming home ahead of the pack in the National Hockey League.

Thursday night the Wings took their 13th NHL title in 39 years as they downed the fifth-place New York Rangers 7-4 at Detroit Olympia.

The Wings' victory stymied any hope Montreal Canadiens might have had of overtaking the flying Red Wings in their two remaining games.

Detroit now has 85 points with two games left to play. The Canadiens are four points back, but also have a pair of contests to face.

The Habs could conceivably equal Detroit's point total by

Third Straight Detroit 'Hat-Trick'

In defeating the Rangers and winning the Prince of Wales trophy—emblematic of first place over regular season play—the Wings once again received the necessary power from their three top scorers.

Team captain Alex Delvecchio led the way, as his three-goal effort netted him his 23rd, 24th and 25th season markers. In addition the veteran centre notched an assist on Paul Henderson's 7th goal of the year.

Norm Ullman, the flashy little centre, whipped home his 40th and 41st goals to aid the Red Wings cause and enable him to take over goal-scoring honors from Chicago's Bobby Hull.

Veteran rightwinger Gordie Howe picked up three assists as his contribution to the trio's splurge, which now consists of 85 points in Detroit's last 14 games.

It was the third three-goal effort by a member of the threesome in their last three games, and for Delvecchio it was his second triple-goal performance of his 15-year-old NHL career. Ullman's 40th and 41st goals made him the first Detroit player to come up with a plus-40 total since Howe notched 44 in the last Red Wings' title year—1956.

Ed Joyal was the other Red Wing marksman, while Earl Ingarfield, with a pair, and Doug Robinson and Jean Ratelle with singles, rounded out the Rangers' scorers.

ALSO SET RECORD

In addition to clinching first place honors, the Wings established a record for consecutive home-ice victories. Thursday night's effort was their 14th straight at the Olympia and one better than the mark set by the Rangers.

Although 30 horses were already in the stables at Aintree track near Liverpool—under strict security precautions against virus germs and doping attempts—most of the favorites were still absent and their trainers refused even to say when they planned to bring them to the course.

Freddie, the favorite at the revised odds of 11-to-2, was somewhere en route from his Scottish stable and reported "still fit and well."

The Rip, owned by the Queen Mother and now second favorite at 15-to-2, and stablemate Kapeno, also were on their way to Liverpool to tackle the rugged chase over 30 hurdles and four miles, 856 yards.

"I prefer not to divulge when the two horses will leave or when they will arrive," said trainer Maj. Peter Gazelet.

"They are both well and I have no coughing in the stable."

Kapeno is joint third favorite with Jay Trump, the American-owned horse, at 14-to-1.

Four more horses, infected with the virus, were withdrawn Wednesday. They were Pappageno's Cottage, top weight and 20-to-1, Scottish Final, My Baby and Bob-a-Job. But no new cases have been reported among the "probables" since.

Special attention is being paid to Rough Tween, a recent stablemate of the infected My Baby.

There were two more withdrawals from the other reasons. What A Myth has developed an indisposition and Threewood, who fell in last Friday's Grand Military Gold Cup, has not recovered as expected.

There were 56 "probables" in the four-day declaration stage, one short of the 1947 field and 10 short of the all-time record field of 66 in 1929.

Last year there were 35 starters, and only 15 made it to the finish.

PAINFUL BUT PLEASANT

Given more than little help by New York's Wayne Hillman, Alex Delvecchio of Red Wings winds up on top of net during National Hockey League game Thursday night in Detroit. Despite rough treatment, Delvecchio was able to smile. He has just pushed puck past goalie Marcel Paille. He later added two more tallies to make it decidedly pleasant evening as Wings whipped Rangers 7-4. (AP Wire-photo.)

It's 'Bingo' for Leafs If Totes or Seals Fall

There are two chances tonight for Victoria Maple Leafs to fill out their Western Hockey League bingo card, but the Leafs are confident they would need only one.

Leaving for Seattle and tonight's game with the Totems, the Leafs needed either one victory or one San Francisco defeat to fill out the card that will give them a berth in the four-team league playoffs.

They can do it by whipping the Canucks and finish up their league schedule with two games against their Vancouver rivals—at Memorial Arena Saturday night and at Vancouver Sunday afternoon.

If that chance goes a-glittering, Los Angeles Blades could drop the last bean in the right spot by tripping the Seals at San Francisco.

McLarens Lead Junior Playoffs

Esquimalt McLarens set out Saturday to wrap up the Victoria Junior Hockey League championship.

McLarens can clinch the three-team, round-robin playoff series with a victory over University Norsemen Saturday's meeting at Esquimalt Sports Centre. Game time is 7:30.

McLarens have two wins and one tie in three games while Norsemen have a 2-1, won-lost-tied record. Norsemen are winless in three starts.

Alberta Firemen Capture Honors

PORT ARTHUR (CP)—John McDonald of Edmonton, responding to pressure with accurate curling, trounced two opponents to haul in his third Canadian Firefighters' championship.

McDonald downed Nova Scotia 17-9, and British Columbia 15-3, to fashion a 6-1 record in the eight-team round-robin tournament. Manitoba and Northern Ontario finished with 5-2 marks while B.C., Saskatchewan and Ontario each had 3-4 records.

McDonald, who ended four years of retirement, added 14. Norm Ullman, 29, has notched 41 goals and 41 assists for his greatest season ever. Team captain Alex Delvecchio, 33, who scored three goals in the victory over the Rangers, has scored 25 goals and ranks fifth in the league scoring race.

Firm Denies Boarding House Snoop

B.C. Hydro today denied a suggestion that it snoops for excesses to impose higher power rates to boarding houses.

It is true, said information officer Dorothy Tupper, that Hydro investigates situations where electricity consumption shows a sharp increase.

"We don't go around looking for people who might have boarders," she said.

HOUSE KEEPS OLD DESKS DESPITE PLEA

On a Social Credit back-bencher, John Tisdale (Saanich) wanted new lighting in the legislature.

He wanted new chairs and desks and a more modern appearance all round.

He made his plea eloquently.

But was squelched by Premier Bennett.

Said the premier after listening to Mr. Tisdale's plea for posture seats, panel lighting and less cumbersome desks: "I think the chairs and desks are just wonderful. There will be no couches in this House as long as I am premier. I do not intend to waste the public money to spoon-feed the members of this House."

Mr. Tisdale did not press the question.

But where a residence of more than seven rooms is found to have more than two boarders a multiple occupancy rate or commercial power rate might be imposed.

CLERKS CHECK

"The way it comes to our attention is in monthly consumption figures. Clerks check these and if there is a sharp increase, then we check to find out what is causing it."

The reason might be a faulty meter, additional electrical appliances, greater demand for hot water, or more people living in the house—boarders.

Then Hydro has the right to drop the private residence rate and impose a higher one.

When this situation arises, the multiple occupancy rate is compared with the commercial rate and the householder is given the lower one, Miss Tupper said.

"We don't make such a check unless consumption goes up to about 2,000 kilowatt hours per month," she pointed out. Average domestic consumption is about 450 KW hours a month.

Multiple occupancy rate is five cents an hour for the first 80 kilowatt hours, three cents for next 200 and anything beyond at 1.65 cents per hour.

The commercial rate is 4.5 cents for the first 75 kilowatt hours, 2.5 cents for the next 2,000 KW hours and 1 cent an hour beyond that.

HOME RATES

The difference between these and the private residence rate could be as much as $8 a month.

A Victoria resident complained that city licensing for multiple dwellings is at variance with Hydro's application of its power rates.

(A city hall spokesman said no licence is required where a landlord has four sleeping guests, but he does need one with three or more guest rooms.)

The resident, who takes in university students, said Hydro makes "misleading investigations." He said the spotter points out the consumption increase and asks if there are extra appliances.

"When you tell the spotter you have boarders, you are hooked."

"There must be hundreds and hundreds of university students boarded in Victoria, and we don't go looking for them," Miss Tupper replied.

World's Young Set to Attend Summer Camp

Children from Guatemala, the Philippines, the United States and Europe will attend the Children's International Summer Village at Brentwood College at Mill Bay July 15 to Aug. 15.

Invitations have also been sent to Denmark, Norway, Finland, Italy, Japan and Mexico and acceptances are expected soon.

Four Canadian children will also attend the International Summer Village.

Similar villages operate in many countries. Each village is made up of four 11-year-old children, two boys and two girls with one adult, from each of 10 countries.

Committee members here are R. W. Dudley, chairman; Dr. K. W. Edwards, vice-chairman; James Mair, Mrs. C. S. Yarwood, J. M. Anguish, J. F. Wood and David MacKenzie.

They will meet in Spencer House Thursday at 8 p.m.

Sponsors Study YMCA Class On Marriage

A school of marriage which has been conducted in the YWCA for the past eight weeks concluded this week.

Results are now being evaluated and, if the school is considered a success, it will be repeated on a tri-annual basis.

"About 25 couples, most of them engaged to be married, took the course and said they found it very helpful," said Rev. G. Howard Turpin of the Greater Victoria Council of Churches.

The course consisted of lectures and discussions on moral, spiritual, legal, financial and domestic aspects of marriage.

It was sponsored by the Council of Churches, the YWCA, Family and Children's Service, the Metropolitan Board of Health and the Roman Catholic diocese of Victoria.

NDP Hit By Bennett In Tirade

By JIM HUME

Wednesday members of the NDP sat smugly and listened to Premier Bennett's tirade against the Liberal party.

Thursday afternoon their faces flushed in anger as Mr. Bennett swung into his second denunciation of the session with the NDP his target.

"You talk about fear," he stormed at Robert Strachan, leader of the opposition. "We know who the people fear in this province—it's the NDP. People turn you down time after time at the polls because they fear you. Industry fears you. That's why you go from defeat to defeat while we go from victory to victory."

WELFARE AID

The outburst came after Mr. Strachan made a plea to the government to put into practice NDP recommendations to provide more employment for physically fit recipients of welfare aid.

"If you listened to this side of the House full-employment would be achieved," he said.

"I agree that people who are employable should have work," Premier Bennett answered. "It was on this point that I crossed the floor of this House. We are working towards that and under this government this will come about."

As the NDP heckled the premier flushed.

"You people are killing jobs," he shouted. "Killing initiative. The CCF is destructive, it destroys everything. The people of this province will laugh at the Socialist party for the next 100 years."

"That," retorted Mr. Strachan, "was arrogance in full flight."

The exchange came early in the afternoon session as members debated estimates for social welfare payments.

Gordon Dowding (NDP-Dewdney) asked for an immediate 20 per cent across the board increase for all recipients so that they could live in dignity.

He won support from Alex Matthew (SC—Vancouver-Centre) who termed present payments of $103 a month for a mother and child inadequate and a "blazing scandal."

BRIEF COMMENT

He asked that greater consideration be given to the problem.

Welfare Minister Wesley Black passed one brief comment.

"I have already assured this House that consideration is being given to the matter. I have no further comment."

Alex Macdonald (NDP—Vancouver East) said the government could ease the welfare payment burden by setting up a $5,000 fund to provide employment for employable recipients of welfare payments.

"They could work on forestry roads and park improvements," he said. "It would give them a chance to work, be of great benefit to the province and save lives from the slow rot of unemployment."

His suggestion drew no comment from government benches.

Delinquency Report Set

A report on juvenile delinquency on the Lower Mainland and the Victoria area will be ready for publication within the next three weeks.

Welfare Minister Wesley Black told the legislature Thursday that the report—two years in the making, was now in the hands of the Queen's Printers and would be ready for distribution "in about three weeks."

He added that the report would be followed by an intensive study of delinquency in other parts of the province.

EIGHTY FLEE IN NIGHT CLOTHES

Edmonton Hotel Blaze Kills Man

EDMONTON (CP)—One man was burned to death and more than 80 other persons, all welfare recipients or pensioners, fled into below-zero temperatures when fire struck a three-storey, frame-and-brick hotel in downtown Edmonton early today.

Several residents suffered minor injuries as they fled in night attire into the street. Some jumped from second floor windows or climbed down fire ladders, but most left by the front door.

The body of a man was found in a third-floor room next to one where the fire was believed to have started. The man was not identified, but police said Tom Dunbar, in his 40s, was the only resident of the hotel unaccounted for after the fire was extinguished.

Medicare Talks Set

OTTAWA (CP)—Proposals for a national medicare plan will be discussed at a federal-provincial conference here late next month or early in May, Prime Minister Pearson told the Commons Thursday.

More than 100 firemen, including an off-duty shift, battled the flames for four hours before putting out the fire in the building, half a block from Edmonton's main east-west business street.

Flames shot from the roof of the old frame-and-brick building at 10142-105 Street as residents ran for safety in below-zero weather. Many of them were in night clothes.

Police said Dunbar was last seen in a room on the third floor where the fire apparently started.

REPORTS THE FIRE

Lloyd Merkley, night clerk at the hotel, said a resident, Ed Bagg, notified him of the fire about 12:30 a.m. By the time Merkley reached the third floor, it was "flashing and flaming."

In every field, there's one product that stands up best. It's usually called the "workhorse".

In outboards, this is it! The Evinrude 40. You want to fish. The kids want to ski. How about pleasure boating and a family picnic? And you've got only one outboard. It has to troll. Quietly. It has to tow. Fast. It has to cruise with this sizeable load. All day and tomorrow, too.

HUNDREDS OF GEESE hover over Nishnabotna River bottom near Sidney, Iowa, as they pause on their migration north. Birds are part of thousands now on northward flight. (AP Wirephoto.)

COLD WEATHER DELAYS MIGRATION

'Sight All Should See'

SIDNEY, Iowa (AP)—One of nature's mysteries has become a breathtaking spectacle in southwest Iowa and northwest Missouri.

It is the annual migration of geese and ducks to their Canadian nesting grounds.

But, because of bitter cold weather and deep snow northward along the Missouri River and into the Canadian Prairie provinces, nearly all of the northern hemisphere's geese and duck population has concentrated in this area.

"It is a sight all should see," said Wesley C. Newcomb, a U.S. game management official.

Field upon field of corn is either white with the blue and white geese or black with ducks. The ground seems to billow and heave as the birds search for grain.

ESTIMATES NUMBER

Newcomb estimated there were 300,000 geese in the Squaw Creek National Wild Life Refuge in northwest Missouri, south of here, and 250,000 in this area.

"When you consider there are also over 1,000,000 ducks in this delayed migration, you have a remarkable situation," Newcomb said.

A sudden noise and thousands of birds wing skyward, blotting out the low-lying hills beyond. They fly north, then suddenly swing back south, as though meeting some unseen obstacle in the sky.

Once the birds leave the fertile grain fields of the upper midwest, Newcomb said, "they have to depend on small bedding grass in Manitoba and the Arctic tundras for food. They need some thawing weather up there for that grass to emerge."

which enable it to pinpoint prey in murky water—or even from what part of its 300-pound body the natural sonar emanates.

2. How it manages to dive hundreds of feet—down and up again in minutes—without getting the "bends" that cripple human divers unless they go through long hours of decompression.

3. How the porpoise got its reputation for speed. The best they'll do for the navy is 20 m.p.h.

The navy has taught porpoises several tricks applicable to anti-submarine warfare, including:

1. Homing from as far as 350 yards, in response to a high-pitched underwater signal which is inaudible to human ears above water.

2. Taking tools to a diver at a depth of 85 feet.

3. Retrieving hats, balls, sticks and distinguishing between them on commands both verbal and electronic.

All this was disclosed at the first public demonstration last week at the navy's $130,000 marine biology facility at the Point Mugu naval missile centre.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Advance tipoffs may have reduced the effectiveness of some U.S. and South Vietnamese air strikes against targets in Communist North Viet Nam, sources said Thursday.

They said there is reason to believe that South Vietnamese Communist agents and sympathizers have been able to obtain information in impending strikes and to radio word to North Viet Nam.

One official said "there are too many hands" involved in preparing the strikes.

This makes it easier for Viet Cong adherents in the South Vietnamese government, military and communications structure to get wind of the operation being planned, he said.

Sources said U.S. authorities have been urging the South Vietnamese government to screen its personnel more carefully and stringently.

Although much official communication is conducted over military radio, safeguarded by various means, some concern was expressed here about the use of telephone lines and their vulnerability to tapping.

LEARN OF MISSIONS

Security breaches have bedeviled U.S.-guided operations inside South Viet Nam from the beginning. Big-scale, helicopter-borne attacks have been compromised by Viet Cong agents learning of them and warning the guerrillas.

Forty members of the International Union of Operating Engineers have voted 92 per cent in favor of strike action against Routledge Gravel Ltd. and Construction Aggregate Company Limited.

Britannia's main industry, Anaconda (Canada) Limited's copper mine, was struck for six months until a settlement with the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers (Ind.) was reached a month ago.

CITY COUNCIL VISITS URGED FOR STUDENTS

Ald. Robert Baird suggested to council Thursday that Grade 12 students or those about to leave the public school system should be more familiar with elected representatives in action.

Attending city council meetings from time to time would broaden their education and give them an insight to civic administration, he said.

"Maybe it will help prick their consciences to get out and vote later," he added.

Labor Official Urges Cut in Jobless Level

Canada must reduce unemployment to three per cent or less by 1970, a top Canadian labor official said here Thursday.

Addressing a luncheon meeting of the Rotary Club of Victoria, Joe Morris, executive vice-president of the Canadian Labour Congress said that to accomplish this Canada needs 1,500,000 new jobs by that year.

Mr. Morris who is in Victoria to participate in Labor Education Week said that Canada has experienced too much unemployment.

"Although there is a slight improvement," Mr. Morris said, "we must not become complacent."

Mr. Morris said that improvements have come from the devaluation of the Canadian dollar and from the wheat sales. But he said that these things are no guarantee for the future. He said that labor and management cannot meet the unemployment challenge alone. Government will have to be involved too.

TRUE PROBLEMS

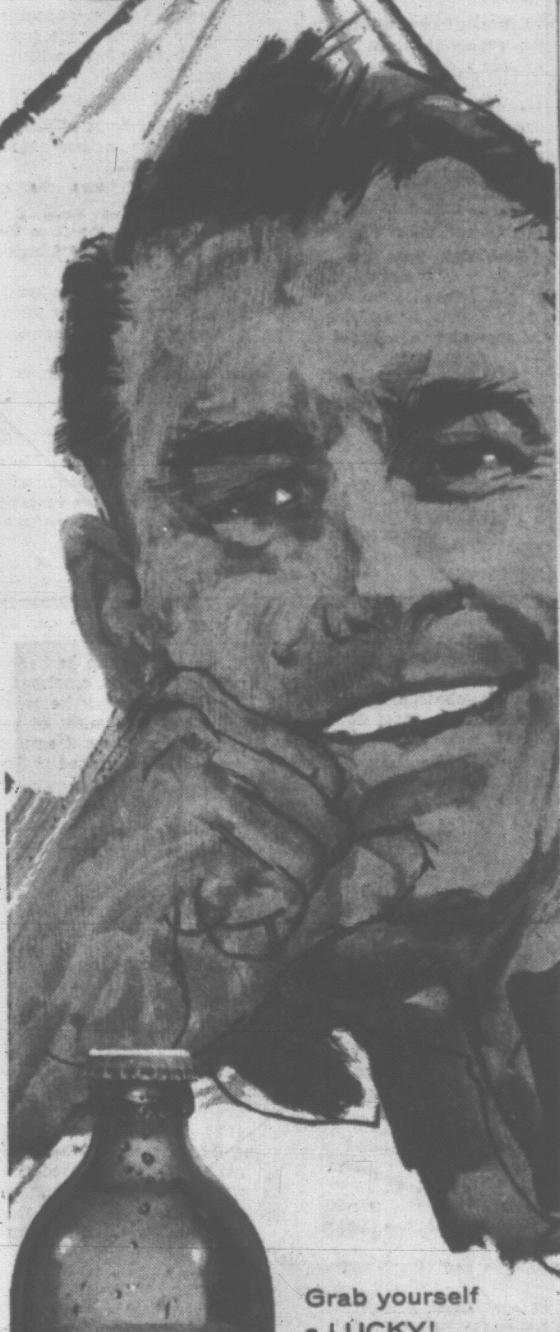

Speaking of automation, Mr. Morris said that its true problems will come to the social structure of our nation. These problems will arise because few will supply all the needs of the many, he said.

He said that it is absolutely essential for all Canadians to work together for the common interest.

The challenges we face are

Sports Car Loop Ready in August

By TERRY IZZARD

Major sports car events will soon be an attraction on Vancouver Island.

Plans for a full racing circuit on the outskirts of Victoria moved into top gear this week.

The track, at Western Speedway off Millstream Road, is already half completed. Target date for completion is mid-August.

The ambitious scheme was given a major boost today by Victoria Motor Sports Club.

BIG NAMES

Local chairman Bob Lowe announced plans for attracting major names in the North American racing world to the island.

An annual sports car rally and several inter-club events are planned.

The track is being built by owner of Western Speedway, Andy Cottyn. It will be one to one-and-a-quarter miles long.

CONTROL TOWER

Features will include a control tower — manned by members of the Victoria club — an underpass allowing several thousand spectators to park within the track, and refreshment stands.

A year-and-a-half's work has gone into clearing land for the circuit.

When the rough track is complete, contractors will move in to lay hardtop.

Cost of this operation alone is expected to be around $30,000.

START AT STANDS

Starting point will be in front of the present stands of Western Speedway.

The course will follow one half of a figure eight at this point.

SKI REPORT

New snow falling lightly on 75 inches of old base in the Nanaimo Lakes area this morning had skiers expecting good conditions for Sunday races at Green Mountain.

Sno-Birds Ski Club today reported the road open to the parking lot and one snowmobile running to the "gully." Two tows will be in operation over the weekend.

Starting at 1 p.m. Sunday will be the annual Green Mountain races for men, women and juniors.

All questions should deal with matters of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve can-dramas or legal problems. Nor will it attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to a dealer.

Time and the Easter Bunny Wait for No Man

By Penny Saver

Penny received a terrible shock yesterday, when she looked at her calendar and noticed Easter is less than a month away! Sounds a little early to start talking about Easter eggs and what-have-you, but for this special time of the year, I like to send a little remembrance to some of my relatives scattered about the country.

Now is the time to think about buying such things and I went shopping for some early Easter eggs to send away immediately—to be sure they reach their destination on time.

For a younger child, how does a huge chocolate elephant covered with chewy colored vanilla icing designs sound. This huge animal is made of thick creamy chocolate and decorated with swirls of colored frosting. (I thought this would be particularly appropriate for my animal-loving youngest nephew.)

In case you are wondering—the store I found these in will mail them just about anywhere for you, but it is best to order now to avoid the late rush. All of the Easter chocolates are hand-made and decorated.

Because of the unique process used in preparing the chocolate for these Easter items, it will not lose its flavor, become hard or stale. The feelings, too, stay chewy and sweet for a long time.

The large elephant I mentioned is selling for $3.75. But this particular store has a regular menagerie to choose from—including chicks and the ever-popular bunnies.

It's often a pleasant custom for boy friends to send or present eggs to their girl friends—and vice versa. I noticed some really lovely Easter eggs which carry the person's name and sell for $2.25 and $3.

But Easter baskets and eggs are particularly for children. I discovered one little plastic basket of novelty eggs, with chickens roosting about it, selling for $1.33. Keep the baskets for the youngsters to play with.

For an Easter party, there are some of the sweetest favor or place-setting ideas, selling for 19 cents. These are tiny chocolate chickens sitting on a small nest of little eggs or just a little nest of chocolate and coconut containing eggs.

Even if you don't have any gifts to send for Easter, keep these in mind for that fast-approaching date. Penny is at 382-3131.

Ask your doctor if it is safe for you to begin exercises now. Your abdominal muscles are stretched but you can recondition them with abdominal exercises. LARGE TURNOUT FOR LADIES' OPENINGGOLFERS IGNORE SNOW

Ignoring the threat of snow, Thursday morning, 58 members of the ladies division of the Royal Colwood Golf and Country Club teed off for the spring opening event. One of the visiting golfers was Mrs. J. H. Todd, second vice-president of the British Columbia, Canadian Ladies' Golf Union.

DEAR ABBY...

What Took So Long?

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: What do you not go on being miserable for the think is wrong with a husband? She should have made an effort to find out the reason for her husband's "sudden coolness" years ago. But it's better late than never.

DEAR ABBY: How do you tell a girl she is dirty?

We are freshmen in high school and one of our classmates comes to school dirty every day. She doesn't comb her hair, she just "rats" it and lets it go. We would like to tell her as politely as possible that she is dirty, but we don't know how.

DEAR DISGUSTED: When cutting meat is astounding. I have even seen people sop up gravy with a piece of bread. Little things like buttering a whole roll or piece of bread without breaking it up into three pieces first is commonplace. Isn't there a nice way to correct people without hurting their feelings?

DISGUSTED.

DEAR DISGUSTED: Speaking of manners, the essence of good manners is to make your guest feel as much "at home" as possible, even though his table manners strike you as intolerable. Annoying as they are, "bad table manners" do not necessarily reveal an individual's more significant qualities.

DEAR GIRLS: There is no "polite" way to tell a girl she is dirty. Perhaps there is a reason why she is "dirty." Do any of you know what her home is like? Are there proper facilities for cleanliness? If there are, and the girl simply does not know better, then one of the girls with whom she is close should have a frank talk with her—but in the spirit of kindness and helpfulness. And the same girl could help her improve her hair style.

DEAR ABBY: I know that no one is perfect but I simply can't tolerate supposedly well-bred intelligent adults who display poor table manners. The number of grown-ups who do not know how to hold a knife and fork properly when cutting meat is astounding. I have even seen people sop up gravy with a piece of bread. Little things like buttering a whole roll or piece of bread without breaking it up into three pieces first is commonplace. Isn't there a nice way to correct people without hurting their feelings?

Mrs. Bob Gale stands at the door of the Land Rover which became one of the party's "taxis" during the eight Victorians' safari in Uganda. Mrs. Norman Lougheed poses with the camp pet, Jackson (seen on roof). Flo Lougheed describes Jackson as the party's "safety valve." The young monkey's chatter would increase to a series of shattering screams if any "cabs" were in the vicinity.

MEET WITH HIPPOPOTAMUS, LIONS AND PRIMITIVE NATIVES

WOMEN GO CAMPING... SAFARI-STYLE

By PAT DUFOUR

Swims with a hippopotamus as a "lifeguard", four lions in your "backyard" and neighbors who like to party on a diet of blood and milk. Sound like fun? Four Victoria women will swear that "it's a ball!"

Elsie Farmer, Pat Goy, Flo Lougheed and Muriel Gale have recently returned from a six-week trip with their husbands, George Farmer, George Goy, Norman Lougheed and Dr. Bob Gale. Highlight of the trip was a three-week safari in Uganda.

They made two camps, one in the Debasien Basin and the other at Lake Albert.

It was at the latter camp that the party was joined by the hippopotamus. "We were all swimming in the lake. Suddenly, we turned around and there he was. He was a 'stray' and didn't seem a bit ferocious. Our 'boys' couldn't understand what he was doing so far from his usual territory."

There were 18 African "boys" in the party, including cooks, stewards and tent hands, one driver and two English professional hunters.

COLORFUL HUNTERS

The Englishmen were almost as colorful as their African help, resorting to such phrases as, "This bloody yelling's impossible" whenever they wanted to get some silence while stalking animals.

Although the African "boys" wore clothes, the four women soon became used to seeing their neighbors, members of the Karamong tribe, running around, as the English hunters termed it, "starko."

The tribesmen's pride was their cattle and their favorite drink, a mixture of blood and milk. They obtained the first ingredient by slitting the jugular vein of an animal and taking what they needed. The "operation" was completed by sealing up the incision with a poultice of mud!

The diet may be unorthodox, but African babies don't seem to object. Says Muriel Gale, "They're the happiest creatures I've ever seen. We never heard a single baby cry the whole time we were there."

The four Victoria men are delighted with their hunting. Each of them bagged nine animals, including Cape buffalo, zebras, warthogs, oribi (small deer) and topi (an elk-like animal).

They even had a nodding acquaintance with lions. "There were four of them in our camp one night, but they didn't bother us. They were sniffing around the skimmers' tent, looking for food."

The women confined their shooting to film, coming home with a "bag" of slides that will keep them busy checking and editing for weeks. But they went along or the morning and evening hunts, traveling either by Land Rover or jeep.

Says Elsie Farmer, "It became a bit rough in spots, especially when you bumped over ant hills and pot holes which had baked hard over ground where elephants had stomped through during the rainy season."

Not that it was all rough living, far from it! As the women describe life in camp, they make you wish you could incorporate a few African customs into our North American system of camping.

"It was wonderful to have our beds turned down each evening and to sit down to dinner at a table covered with a sparkling white cloth. Every afternoon, a 'boy' would come along at 4:30 p.m. to collect the dirty washing."

FRESH' FOOD

The food, too, was slightly more interesting than the baked beans so often encountered on camping trails here. Recalls Pat Goy, "We ate a lot of game... nicely prepared, but a bit fresh."

Flo Lougheed's most vivid memories are of the camp at Lake Albert. "There, we were able to sit around a peaceful campfire and hear the sound of guns and bombs on the Congo border 15 miles away. It gave you the weirdest sensation."

And, although their husbands had the exclusive privilege of hunting while the party was on safari, their wives will take over most of the "bag" when it arrives, thoroughly skinned and cured.

In at least four Victoria homes this spring, zebra-covered chairs will be the height of household haute couture!

Ceramics Featured at Luncheon

A display of ceramics by Mrs. Gordon Grant was the highlight of a luncheon sponsored by the Mothers' Club of Victoria Chapter, Order of DeMolay, Thursday.

Mrs. Kim Campbell was in charge of the display and took orders for a number of designs. Proceeds from the ceramics and a raffle convened by Mrs. L. E. Barkley will be used towards the club's building fund. A sum of $190 was realized at the affair that was held in the Hudson's Bay Douglas Room.

In her opening speech, Alderman Mrs. Lily Wilson commanded the mothers on their show of interest in the activities of the order.

Guests were welcomed by Mrs. J. Hilliard. Mrs. V. Peddle was in charge of the luncheon and Mrs. J. Fyfe, centred the guests' tables.

Chinese Teen-Agers Told They Needn't Cut Pigtails

PEKING (Reuters) — Chinese girls have been officially reassured that they do not have to cut off their pigtails or ponytails to prove that they are loyal revolutionary Communists.

Replying to a letter from a Canton schoolgirl, Liu Fen-hua, the editor of the youth organization newspaper China Youth News said: "It is perfectly right for some girls to cut their hair short for their convenience in working and living. But we should not take cutting the hair short as a demonstration of revolutionization."

Liu Fen-hua said that several of her schoolmates in the south China city had cut their pigtails because they thought "short hair is a revolutionary style."

After thinking the matter over, said Liu Fen-hua, she came to the conclusion that her schoolmates were wrong. A girl can wear her hair how she likes.

Most Chinese women and girls wear their straight black hair plain and cut short.

Pigtails, sometimes reaching to the waist, are popular among students and schoolgirls, and are also worn by a few adult women.

Under the Manchu emperors, many Chinese men wore their hair in a single pigtail but after the monarchy was overthrown in 1911 this came to be regarded as a symbol of oppression.

The resolution was passed following reference to the recent appointment of Mrs. Christine Waddell as industrial relations officer in the labor conciliation section of the government. It will be presented at the annual meeting of the Provincial BPW Club to be held at Pinewoods in May.

Guest speaker at the meeting was Mrs. Lois Hagen, MLA, a member of the Grand Forks BPW Club. Her topic was "Women in Public Life".

Among special guests at the meeting were Mrs. Geraldine Simpson, president of the Oak Bay club; Mrs. G. Gilbert, Mrs. B. Hurdon, Port Arthur, and Mrs. F. Keifer.

Indians Have Population Boom in B.C.

The natural population gain among B.C. Indians is galloping ahead but the non-Indian natural growth is losing ground slowly, according to the latest vital statistics.

Released by Health Minister Eric Martin Thursday, the figures cover the calendar year 1962.

The Indian birth rate rose to 59.5 per 1,000 population from 58.8 the previous year while the death rate fell to 12.1 per 1,000, from 12.9 the previous year.

Among non-Indians, the birth rate fell to 21.2 per 1,000 per 1,000 population from 22.1 the previous year and the death rate was 8.8 per 1,000 population compared with 8.9 in 1962.

Combined, the figures produced the lowest overall birthrate since the Second World War of 22.1 per 1,000 population and the overall birthrate was 8.9 per 1,000 population, down slightly from the previous year.

MARRIAGE RATE

The marriage rate jumped to 6.9 per 1,000 population from 6.7 in both 1962 and 1961.

The illegitimacy rate was the highest ever recorded for the province reaching 8.2 for every 1,000 live births in B.C. The year before it was 7.5 per 1,000 births.

Over one-third of all illegitimate births occurred to mothers under 20 years of age and this group accounted for 50 per cent of the increase over the previous year," Mr. Martin said. "The indications are that it is still increasing."

Leading causes of death remained in the same order as before: heart disease accounting for 38 per cent of all deaths; cancer for 18 per cent; strokes for 11 per cent; and accidents for 7 per cent.

Ottawa Aids Fraser Dike Rebuilding

The first application from British Columbia for federal assistance with part of the $4,900,000 Fraser River dike reconstruction program will qualify under the Canada Water Conservation Assistance Act, the resources department has announced.

This application is for repairs to the Harrison Mills Dike in Kent municipality.

B.C. Water Resources Minister Ray Williston said the federal approval was important because it formally starts the B.C. program with a precedent permitting small sections of the overall program to be shared financially between the three levels of government.

"We will be able to undertake it now a piece at a time as necessary," he said. "Previously, we had to have a project worth at least $1 million before the federal government would share in it."

Under the Canada Water Conservation Act, river control projects will be shared 37.5 per cent by each of the senior governments and the remaining 25 per cent by the local government involved.

He returned Wednesday after two days in Ottawa negotiating for the $50,000 Harrison Mills project. He was put in charge of the provincial government's revamped diking policy at the recent session.

The Ottawa announcement said the application will receive final approval when sufficient other proposals, of an engineering nature and covered by the Fraser River board report of 1964, have been received to a total of $1,000,000.

British Columbia has indicated further applications for assistance will be made soon.

Youth Guilty Of Assault, Gets Remand

A young man pleaded guilty to assault and wilful damage charges Thursday in city police court.

Roy Frank Di Castri was charged with assaulting a police officer when questioned about damaging saplings Feb. 17 on the boulevard of Government St. between Bay and Princess.

He and a companion had been leap-frogging over the young trees at the time.

When approached by police, Di Castri grabbed Const. Bruce Campbell by the lapel of his raincoat and shoved him, court was told.

He then told the officers he would take on any of them and said he would lay charges against them for "laughing on duty," court was told.

Di Castri first pleaded not guilty to the charges but changed his plea on advice of his counsel after prosecution evidence had been introduced.

He was remanded on bail to March 31 for sentence by Magistrate William Ostler.

SOCIAL WELFARE CHEQUES

Payment Levels Hammered

By JOHN MIKA

Members of all three parties Thursday took turns hammering at the government's "inadequate" social assistance allowances for mothers trying to raise a family after the husband has died or abandoned them.

But neither Premier Bennett nor Social Welfare Minister Wesley Black would budge from their answer that the rates would be given consideration in due course.

Leo Nimsick (NDP—Cranbrook) lost a duel lasting more than half an hour in which he threatened a filibuster if Mr. Black did not undertake to bring the question of social assistance rates to the cabinet for a decision within 30 days.

He was supported by several NDP and Liberal members but a motion by Gordon Dowding (NDP—Burnaby) to withhold the minister's salary vote until cabinet considered the rates was defeated.

NO TIME LIMIT

Premier Bennett said he had promised the matter would be considered by cabinet and he would live up to it but would not accept any time limit for a decision.

Although disagreeing with a time limit, Victoria Sacred MLA J. Donald Smith teamed up with Mr. Nimsick to vehemently denounce the rates as grossly inadequate. Liberal Leader Ray Perrault even congratulated Mr. Smith for "an eloquent appeal."

Mr. Smith said all 52 MLAs must share responsibility unless they persuade the government to raise the rates.

He referred to a Victoria mother raising five children on $190 a month social assistance who was charged in court with shoplifting clothes for her young.

"I don't know whether she solving the problem."

Public Drive Suggested On Adoptions

Welfare Minister Wesley Black would like to see other B.C. cities follow the example of Dawson Creek when it comes to promoting adoptions.

SEES SCANDAL

Alex Mathew (SC—Vancouver Centre) agreed with Mr. Nimsick that the $103 allowance for a mother and one child was "a blazing scandal" and Ernie LeCours (SC—Delta) also added backbench disapproval of the present rates.

Mr. Perrault said the government, which has not raised the rates in five years, could avoid recurring controversies by adding a built-in cost-of-living index factor to the rates scale.

Mr. Black replied that a great deal of advertising had been carried out.

"But Dawson Creek showed the way," he said. "The mayor there declared an adoption week that resulted in 100 children finding homes.

"If the members of this House could persuade mayors in their areas to do the same thing it would be a great step towards solving the problem."

In dog house again, Harry contemplates next move.

JUNKYARD CLAIMS ARE ALL RUBBISH, SAYS 'RETIRED' DEALER

Sidney's Not Exactly Wild About Harry!

By TERRY IZZARD

That's the trouble with Harry.

Give him a yard and he takes a mile.

Worse still, he takes a whole heap of souvenirs and treasures.

While they're treasures to Harry they're so much junk to his neighbors.

And they're junk to the village of Sidney where Harry is living.

In a bid to curb Harry's hoarding habits the village commission is planning raising fines for illegal junk dealing.

Not that Harry Haigh, Victoria's best known junk dealer, is collecting junk.

At his $4,000 home on Sixth Avenue this week, Harry said: "I'm retired. There's no junk here."

The junk that isn't there includes stacks of wood, oil cans, nuts and bolts, two air cylinders and a miscellaneous pile of... scrap.

"That's just stuff I'm going to need," said 54-year-old Harry. "I've got a project coming up. It's to do with heat, but I can't tell you any more at the moment — it's sort of secret."

"The wood? That's for the wood furnace I'm going to install. It's costing me $1,25 a day to heat this place."

In the driveway of his latest home stands an ambulance, red cross and all.

"I hardly ever use it," said Harry. "I'd promised to buy it from the hospital though and when they finally agreed to sell I felt obliged to buy it."

'THE CHAMBERS DON'T UNDERSTAND RETAILERS'

DUNCAN—Retailers here were warned Thursday night of the dangers of wide-open store hours.

Ray Hunt, manager of B.C. Retail Merchants' Association, told the retailers: "Don't think wide-open night hours can't come here just as on the lower mainland."

Mr. Hunt was urging support for the association's proposal for provincial control of shopping hours.

He said a brief had been presented to the cabinet but Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell had written saying he merchants don't understand the retailers. The chambers have sat on the fence continually and this won't solve anything."

Replies to a questionnaire showed 91 per cent of retailers in favor of regulated hours, 81 per cent wanted a full day closing, and 87 per cent did not want an optional extra late night.

Joe Kuzik and Dick Benzies of the Duncan-Cowichan chamber agreed to try to revive the retail division which went defunct four years ago over the disputed question of closing hours.

Movie insiders are agog over the strong blast Variety took at the new film "Fanny Hill: Memoirs of a Woman of Pleasure." They called it a slipshod, guttersnipe production, with a dull, smutty approach—a disgrace to the film industry." Seldon has this trade paper done such a scathing review on a movie

According to the author young Karim is doing everything possible to erase his father's memory. He has sold most of Aly's properties and personal effects and refuses to talk about him. Mr. Slater was unable to persuade him to comment even briefly for the book.

Anita Loos, who wrote "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes," the book that became a musical comedy and did so much to launch Carol Channing as a star, has this to say about Carol: "She is nature's own child. Nazi Bill Sparks Crisis for Bonn

BONN (CP)—Jewish leaders reacted coldly today to West Germany's new war crimes legislation, contending that the bill extending the statute of limitations for Nazi murderers by five years does not go far enough.

Rabbi Joachim Prinz, president of the American Jewish Congress, told an audience of Berlin Jews that public opinion will be sharply critical of the action taken Thursday by the West German Bundestag. The German-born rabbi, who now lives in Newark, N.J., said the proposed law is "not sufficient."

Meanwhile, Justice Minister Ewald Buecher, who offered his resignation Thursday night after passage of the bill, today spent 45 minutes with Chancellor Ludwig Erhard.

Political observers said Buecher's move will cause a cabinet crisis, and further damage the reputation of Erhard's government, already tarnished by handling of the controversial statute of limitations and criticized for its policy in the Middle East and toward France.

Buecher was accompanied by Vice-Chancellor Erich Mende, fellow member and leader of the Free Democratic party, which is the junior partner in Erhard's coalition.

TAMMY IS HAPPY—The Easter Seals campaign is now on its way. She and all the other crippled children in Victoria will hopefully continue to receive the help which is provided them through the sale. Strongest support is pledged here by Victoria Maple Leafs' players Lou Jankowski and Al Millar and coach Rudy Pilous. Tammy for 1965 is 13-year-old Earline Campbell of Victoria.

She has had six corrective operations for a leg defect. She walks with great pain and difficulty. Lions Clubs in Greater Victoria are mailing 60,000 envelopes with seals to householders in the area. The funds will be used to help Tammy and the other children get about town in one of the 26 Easter Seals Bunny Buses, now in operation in B.C.

Kennedy Staying Below After Climb Close Call

NEW YORK (UPI)—Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, first man to stand atop the 13,900-foot Yukon peak named for the late president Kennedy, headed back to Washington today with a vow "to stay on the floor of my house" hereafter.

Kennedy had a close call during the ascent, slipping through a hole in an ice bridge stretched over a yawning crevasse.

The senator arrived at John F. Kennedy International Airport here at 6:05 a.m. for a brief stopover before taking a shuttle flight to Washington. He looked tired, suntanned and windburned from his ascent of Mt. Kennedy, which had been the highest unclimbed peak in North America.

FEELING FINE "I feel fine," Kennedy said. "I'm going back to see my family."

Asked if he would climb any more mountains, he replied: "I have no plans to—I'm glad I did it and I'm glad it's over." The junior senator from New York climbed the peak named for his brother for sentimental reasons. He had never climbed a mountain before.

Before returning to his wife, ders," he said. "I got my arms out and stopped."

Kennedy made the two-day climb with seven alpine experts, including James W. Whittaker, the first North American to stand atop Mt. Everest.

The senator said he reached the top Wednesday in bright sunshine and with unlimited visibility. He saw the Pacific Ocean to the southwest and Mt. Logan, Canada's highest peak, at 19,850 feet, to the northwest.

Kennedy said he had planted a flag on the summit bearing the Kennedy family crest and John F. Kennedy's presidential coat-of-arms but removed it before the party descended.

"They told me it would disappear in 48 hours," he said.

"I didn't really enjoy any part of it," he told newsmen.

Kennedy said that on the climb he had mastered "putting one foot in front of the other" and learned that climbing is "not dangerous." But it is "tougher than politics," he said.

NEVER AGAIN

Kennedy said before leaving Seattle last night he was pleased with the Mt. Kennedy expedition, but added: "I won't climb the mountain again. I don't think I'll climb any more mountains."

Thursday the 39-year-old senator revealed he had had a close call while crossing an ice bridge over a crevasse about 900 feet below the summit. He said he dropped through the snow bridge up to his chest before a 50-foot rope slowed his fall.

MISSILES UNDER STUDY

Sparrows for New Ships?

OTTAWA (CP)—The navy is considering arming its proposed new helicopter-carrying destroyers with air-to-air missiles.

The Commons defence committee was told Thursday that the Sparrow missile, used by the United States Air Force, is being studied as a possible weapon for the four new ships, the first of which is due to be started by the end of next year.

Defence Minister Hellyer said that while the Sparrow missile was being considered, no final decision has yet been reached.

Meanwhile, the committee was given a schedule of the construction and conversion program announced by Mr. Hellyer in December.

The first of the four new destroyers, to cost an estimated total of $142,000,000, will get under way in December, 1966, and be completed in May, 1970. The other three will be built in shorter periods, with the final keel being laid in August, 1968, and completed in July, 1971.

The conversion of seven Restigouche-class destroyer escorts will cost an estimated $65,000,000. The first, the Terra Nova, will be converted, beginning in July, at the Halifax naval dock-

City Approves Leave For Health Officer

City council Thursday gave tentative approval to a year's leave of absence for deputy chief medical officer Dr. G. P. Evans, who plans to take post-graduate work.

The city does not object as long as a suitable replacement for him fills in, council decided.

Metro health board asked city approval for the move, which would be effective in September.

"We shouldn't place unnecessary impediments in the way of Dr. Evans improving his post-graduate training," said city manager Dennis Young, pointing out that this was an unusual case.

Dr. Evans is actually a provincial government employee and medical health officer for Saanich.

But if he went away without a replacement, extra work might be placed upon city-employed health staff, Mr. Young said.

"Saanich might have to rely on Victoria staff," the manager said.

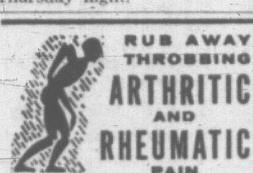

Council approved the principle of a Saanich proposal to lease Gorge Park at $1 a year for 20 years allowing the municipality to spend money on its development outside of Victoria-Saanich beaches and parks committee.

"The park is a disgrace," Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow said. "Before we approve a lease they are going to give us a plan telling us what they will do with it."

"We could still subdivide it," Ald. Mrs. Lily Wilson mused aloud.

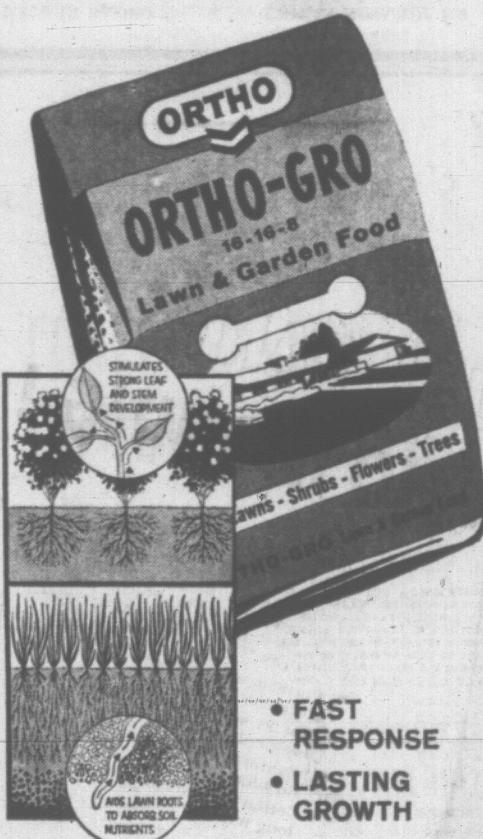

That would be sacrilege," Ald. Edgelow said after a moment's silence.

"We must do something to protect these areas and make them beautiful for the future,"

Much as I hate to give Gas to own - on - Burrard credit for anything save fog and thuggery, I am forced to concede that Vancouver's live-wire PTA groups haven't been sitting on their hands in the matter of student bus fares.

On Thursday, through Alex Macdonald, NDP for Vancouver-East, they backed earlier protests against outrageous student bus fares with a 23,000-name petition for an easement more adequate than the two and a half cent cut awarded in January.

They now request a five-cent reduction, and to back their pitch, point to the hardship imposed on families with several school children by the present 10-for-a-dollar ticket strip or 15 cents cash rate on school days only.

I've never been sure just how effective petitions are, but Mr. Macdonald at least made an impressive sight as he jugged the petition scrolls into the House in a well-worn packack.

It should also be remembered, I suppose, that the old folks' $5 supplementary allowance raise followed soon after a bus pass plea backed by a mountain of Victoria signatures.

Lady member Lois Haggen, from whom we haven't heard much lately, had a word to say at the afternoon sitting about that new attraction for restless adolescents, the discotheque.

Mrs. Haggen boggled the pronunciation of the name which these dancing-to-disco houses have brought with them from France via New York. She hadn't been in one, either, and was doubtful what went on behind their doors.

"But," she said, "I'm afraid these clubs are being organized and operated simply to make money from young people."

"I haven't been in one, but I have talked to a number of parents, and they are very concerned over what's going on."

"What goes on, I'm told, is the specialized dancing of youth, without inspiration of liquor. Such incidents as have arisen involve the kids who went on from the discotheques."

Mrs. Haggen's general, and gloomy view: "I'm perturbed because I feel we're being faced with a world of undisciplined youth; and this is our fault. Since we do not accept young people in our adult world, they create a world of their own."

But haven't the young always done that? Didn't we? Didn't the lady MLA for Grand Forks-Greenwood?

RADAR SITES BOMBED AGAIN

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. Navy jet bombers attacked four coastal radar stations in North Viet Nam today, one of them only 80 miles from China's Hainan Island.

The raid was by far the deepest penetration into North Viet Nam of any of the 12 raids since Feb. 7.

Lady member Lois Haggen, from whom we haven't heard much lately, had a word to say at the afternoon sitting about that new attraction for restless adolescents, the discotheque.

Mrs. Haggen boggled the pronunciation of the name which these dancing-to-disco houses have brought with them from France via New York. She hadn't been in one, either, and was doubtful what went on behind their doors.

Targets Picked For U.S. Raids

SAIGON (Reuters) — U.S. Air Force planners have picked key road and rail targets in North Viet Nam that could be bombed at the first sign of large-scale Chinese military aid arriving in that country, informed sources said today.

The sources said the primary target would be a railway linking China and Hanoi through Lao Kay, a North Vietnamese town on the Chinese border.

The Chinese Communist party newspaper People's Daily, published in Peking, said Thursday China is ready to send men and representation in pace with population trends.

For the Greater Victoria area, it would mean a loss in the number of seats it filled in the provincial house.

SIX MEMBERS

At present six MLAs are elected by this area: three in Victoria, one each in Saanich, Oak Bay and Esquimalt territory. But there are only two federal ridings, Victoria and Esquimalt-Saanich. With dual members, this would give the area four seats in the legislature.

Under its terms of reference, the federal commission can establish any given riding boundaries to include up to 25 per cent more or less of the population in an average riding.

This would provide it with sufficient leeway in population juggling to meet often-expressed fears of interior and northern MLAs that a straight one-for-one ratio of population division in all ridings would result in complete domination of the legislature by the big cities.

NEXT SESSION

The federal redistribution commission is expected to make its report to Ottawa later this year, in plenty of time to allow the B.C. government to use its findings for amendments to the provincial constituencies at next winter's session as promised by Provincial Secretary Wesley Black earlier this week.

The premier also gave the legislature hints of his ideas this week. He told MLAs Wednesday that he personally favored the idea of "dual-member constituencies." And Thursday he emphasized that redistribution could be expected before the next provincial election but would not involve any enlargement of the house.

FIRST SPORTS CAR RACING CIRCUIT on Vancouver Island should be ready by mid-August. Aerial photo taken from Morrisons Rotors helicopter shows siting of the track in relation to existing course. Dotted lines indicate course cars will take.

Sports Car Loop Ready in August

By TERRY IZZARD

Major sports car events will soon be an attraction on Vancouver Island.

Plans for a full racing circuit on the outskirts of Victoria moved into top gear this week.

The track, at Western Speedway off Millstream Road, is already half completed. Target date for completion is mid-August.

The ambitious scheme was given a major boost today by Victoria Motor Sports Club.

BIG NAMES

Rally chairman Bob Lowe announced plans for attracting major names in the North American racing world to the island.

An annual sports car rally and several inter-club events are planned.

The track is being built by owner of Western Speedway, Andy Cottyn. It will be one to one-and-a-half miles long.

CONTROL TOWER

Features will include a control tower— manned by members of the Victoria club—an underpass allowing several thousand spectators to park within the track, and refreshment stands.

A year-and-a-half's work has gone into clearing land for the circuit.

When the rough track is complete, contractors will move in to lay asphalt.

Cost of this operation alone is expected to be around $30,000.

START AT STANDS

Starting point will be in front of the present stands of Western Speedway.

The course will follow one half of a figure eight at this point.

SKI REPORT

New snow falling lightly on 75 inches of old base in the Nanaimo Lakes area this morning had skiers expecting good conditions for Sunday races at Green Mountain.

Sno-Birds Ski Club today reported the road open to the parking lot and one snowmobile running to the "gully." Two tows will be in operation over the weekend.

Starting at 1 p.m. Sunday will be the annual Green Mountain races for men, women and juniors.

COUNCIL AGREES TO PRESS INVESTIGATION

London Next Port-of-Call in Search for Tilikum Records

By PETE LOUDON

Victoria City Hall officials will write to England in an attempt to determine ownership of the famed dugout "Tilikum."

Ald. Geoffrey Edgeland, who raised the matter at a council meeting Thursday, won agreement that further investigation should be made.

He said today, "I will have them write to the Greenwich Yacht Club at London."

Documentary proof of ownership has been sought since last week when provincial authorities arranged for the three-ton Indian dugout to be moved from Thunderbird Park to the Maritime Museum which will open this fall in the old courthouse building on Bastion Square.

The move inspired a controversy spearheaded by tour bus operator G. R. "Rebel" Mowat. He claims the city owns the vessel and has asked that charges be laid against those who removed it from free public view to a place where admissions will be charged to see it.

His stand is supported by various old records which say the Tilikum was donated to Victoria by Greenwich Yacht Club only on condition there never would be a fee charged for viewing it.

Ald. Edgeland told council he felt Tilikum would be better preserved in the museum than in the park. But he added, "Today, it could have been glassed in at the park and still seen without payment of a fee."

He also thought it should be determined whether the province has usurped civic authority in ordering the boat to be moved, which could create a bad precedent.

What would council do if it finds the free-display covenant exists?

"I don't know," he replied. "First let's find out who owns it."

He pointed out that when Tilikum was brought here in 1930, no suitable museum existed. Now that there is one, he could understand why it would have to pay its own way through charging admissions.

Mr. Mowat is determined, however, that it is wrong for Victoria to put a price tag on its attractions. He says his phone has never stopped ringing since he took his stand and many residents side with him in the matter.

He said he is apparently unable to press charges of theft of the vessel, at least until ownership is proved. But if it is established that Victoria owns the dugout, he will consider asking his attorney to seek a court order for its return.

City clerk Frank Hunter so far has been unable to find documentary proof of city ownership.

A story in Victoria Times June 23, 1930, says Tilikum arrived here aboard the Furness line's Pacific Ranger in a crate and was resting at Rutherford pier awaiting decision of Chamber of Commerce directors as to just what will be done with her."

RECORD-BREAKING SESSION PROROGUING

MLAs Toiled Harder for Extra Pay

By JOHN MIKA
Times Legislative Reporter

The second session of the 27th legislature was to be prorogued by Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes late this afternoon after nine weeks that established new sitting records for recent years.

Tired MLAs adopted their salary raises to $8,000 at 1:45 this morning as the last item of the budget estimates.

Although seven government bills, 23 resolutions and 17 private members still remained to be dealt with on today's order paper, all indications were that the customary rapid-fire disposal of non-government bills and resolutions would set the MLAs free to head home as part of tonight's ferry traffic.

ONE MORE SHOT

Among the government bills remaining is third reading for the one firing suspended purchasing commission chairman G. E. P. Jones, but it is expected to pass after one more blast from the opposition.

The NDP, which dramatized its disgust with government refusal to specify reasons for the firing by walking out rather than vote on second reading, is expected to register its disapproval this time by recording nay votes. The Liberals will repeat their "no" votes.

The MLAs worked harder for their higher pay than any session since the Social Credit administration began 13 years ago, setting new records in duration, number of separate sittings and number of night sittings.

All told, Speaker William Murray opened 68 separate sittings of the House—breaking the record of 63 set in 1962. With the sittings averaging 3½ hours, this totals about 238 hours of political speeches.

The session also saw 22 night sittings—previous record was 20 set in 1959—starting off with the steady two-week pace and winding up the last fortnight with a night session each day except Friday.

The duration of the session, 65 days from its opening Jan.

21 with the throne speech, also exceeded the previous mark of 63 days in 1962.

In addition, for some of the members, there were almost 30 hours of hearings in standing committees.

And for all of them, there were many more hours of party caucus meetings to plan strategy in the House.

Warning Given Skate-Boarders

Injury Rate Soars In Teen-Ager Fad

The teen-age skate-boarding fad is worrying both police and hospital officials in Greater Victoria.

They say the injury rate is high and will be higher if the sport isn't taken off travelled streets.

Royal Jubilee Hospital emergency ward officials report eight or 10 victims of the sport have been brought in for treatment in the past 10 days.

At St. Joseph's an emergency ward nurse said, "We've had all kinds of them in the past couple of weeks."

Both hospitals report injuries have ranged from fractures of arms, shoulders and ankles to sprains and abrasions.

FEAR COLLISIONS

Most accidents have been blamed on simple spills. But police fear collisions with cars are probable as the sport spreads.

"Somebody's going to be killed," said Saanich chief Bert Pearson.

He said his department gets calls every day from residents of hillside areas used by the skateboard enthusiasts. Most of the complaints are engendered by the noise.

CHARGES COMING

"If they don't stop, we're going to have to start charging them," said the chief.

Both Oak Bay and Saanich police forces have asked all school principles to warn students that skateboarding won't be allowed on municipal streets—only on private property.

Oak Bay police said one charge may be pending against a youngster at this time.

Esquimalt police joined in the warning. But Victoria officers said so far the sport has not been a problem in the city, although youngsters should always stay off streets.

NO BRAKING

Skateboards are being sold in Victoria department stores. They consist of a flat board up to two feet long, mounted on roller skate wheels, set in a line. The skateboarder balances on the board to coast down hills. There is no braking device.

The sport is thought to have originated in the United States where competitions are organized. It has been growing in popularity here for about two years.

MINOR MIDNIGHT 'QUAKE Rattles China in Homes

A minor earthquake occurred shortly after midnight in the Gulf Islands.

It was felt by a number of residents who telephoned police, newspapers and the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory on Little Saanich Mountain.

An observatory spokesman said he had received 20 telephone calls this morning.

The tremor occurred at 12:38 a.m. about 20 miles northeast of Victoria and registered 2.5 on the Richter scale.

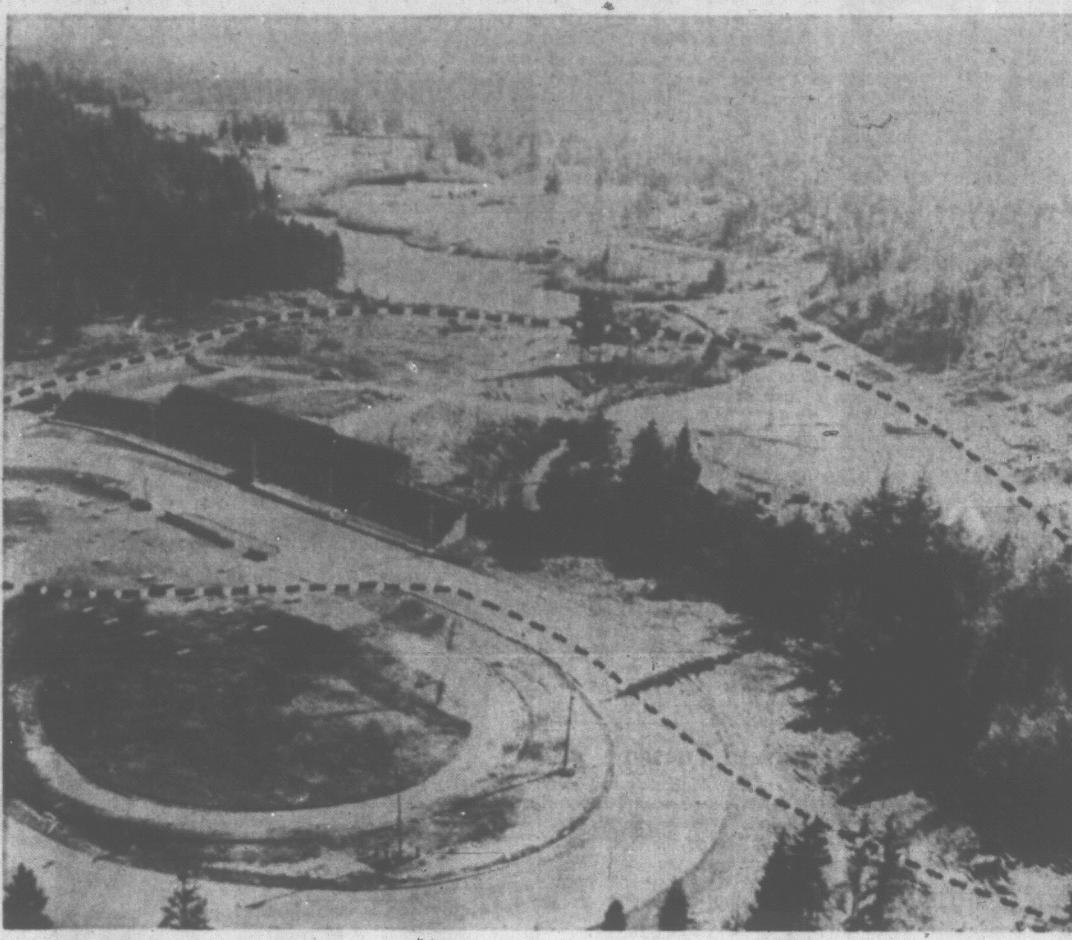

The spokesman called it "quite small" but sufficient to rattle the china of any home close to the tremor.

DEATH-HUNTING FLAMES CHEATED BY DINING OUT...

By ROGER STONEBANKS

Ed and Lucie Smith had dinner out Thursday night.

It may have saved their lives.

Their home at 2615 Blanshard Street was engulfed in flames following a sharp explosion shortly after 6 p.m.

"If anyone was in the house they wouldn't have been saved," said neighbor Mrs. Frank Findlay, 2619 Blanshard.

DESTROYED

Firemen brought the fire under control within 15 minutes but the house was "as good as totally destroyed." Damage was estimated at $7,000.

"It was just like a bomb going off," said Mrs. Findlay.

"Then flames shot out all over the house and it was all burning."

REPAIRING

The Smiths, who had lived in the house for the last seven months, were repairing it so the bottom floor of the frame building could be rented.

They have some insurance but doubted it would cover all they have lost.

Earlier in the day, Mr. Smith was trying to disconnect a soldered joint on an old gas and wood stove but couldn't meet the solder.

A B.C. Hydro spokesman said it was unlikely a gas explosion touched off the fire.

The blast from the explosion blew out downstairs windows.

Flames were seen shooting feet above the house.

The Smiths spent Thursday night at the home of relatives at 3222 Whitlow.

... And Alert Neighbor

Six children narrowly escaped possible death Thursday night when an alert neighbor spotted a fire.

Five of the six children of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Young, 1165 Oscar, were asleep while their parents were out.

The eldest child, Michael, 12, was baby-sitting downstairs.

Neighbor Mrs. Dolphus Peter, 1169 Oscar, was hanging up some clothes.

"I heard crackling fire and saw the house and flames coming out."

"I called the fire department and rushed in to get the kids up. They were all in bed except Mike who was unaware of the fire."

Both Mrs. Young, who was having tea with a neighbor when the fire started about 10 p.m., and her husband were too upset to talk about the experience this morning.

The sleeping children were Cathy, 10; Wendy, 8; Bobbie, 7; Brenda, 4, and Joan, 3.

FIREMAN HURT

Fireman John Shipley suffered minor cuts to his left hand and was taken to hospital for a few stitches before returning to work.

There was some doubt insurance covered the loss.

Firemen were recalled to the scene at 1:45 a.m. when smouldering "sparks" among shingles flared up briefly.

The Young family is staying with friends in Esquimalt.

CADETS OF THE CANADIAN SERVICES COLLEGE

at Royal Roads will be stepping out Sunday at a wing parade, open to the public, under the command of Cadet Wing Commander G. D. Kenny.

It will start at 10 in the morning. The cadets, in full dress uniform, will be inspected by Rear Admiral M. G. Stirling, flag officer Pacific Coast.

Both Oak Bay and Saanich police forces have asked all school principals to warn students that skateboarding won't be allowed on municipal streets — only on private property.

Oak Bay police said one charge may be pending against a youngster at this time.

Esquimalt police joined in the warning. But Victoria officers said so far the sport has not been a problem in the city, although youngsters should always stay off streets.

NO BRAKING

Skateboards are being sold in Victoria department stores. They consist of a flat board up to two feet long, mounted on roller skate wheels, set in a line. The skateboarder balances on the board to coast down hills. There is no braking device.

The sport is thought to have originated in the United States where competitions are organized. It has been growing in popularity here for about two years.

FOUNDATION MEMBER DR. HUGH BORSMAN

John Neil McEathron, 325 Shelburne Street, also asked for a remand on an impaired driving charge laid against him this morning.

Both matters were adjourned to April 2.

'LET'S FIND OUT WHO OWNS IT'

A minor earthquake occurred shortly after midnight in the Gulf Islands.

It was felt by a number of residents who telephoned police, newspapers and the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory to Little Saanich Mountain.

An observatory spokesman said he had received 20 telephone calls this morning.

The tremor occurred at 12:08 a.m. about 20 miles northeast of Victoria and registered 2.5 on the Richter scale.

JUNKYARD CLAIMS ARE ALL RUBBISH, SA YS 'RETIRED' DEALER

Sidney's Not Exactly Wild About Harry!

By TERRY IZZARD

That's the trouble with Harry.

Give him a yard and he takes a mile.

Worse still, he takes a whole heap of souvenirs and treasures.

While they're treasures to Harry they're so much junk to his neighbors.

And they're junk to the village of Sidney where Harry is living.

In a bid to curb Harry's hoarding habits the village commission is planning raising fines for illegal junk dealing.

Not that Harry Haigh, Victoria's best known junk dealer, is collecting junk.

At his $4,000 home on Sixth Avenue this week, Harry said: "I'm retired. There's no junk here."

THE CHAMBERS DON'T UNDERSTAND RETAILERS'

DUNCAN—Retailers here were warned Thursday night of the dangers of wide-open store hours.

Ray Hunt, manager of B.C. Retail Merchants' Association, told the retailers: "Don't think wide-open night hours can't come here just as on the lower mainland."

Mr. Hunt was urging support for the association's proposal for provincial control of shopping hours.

He said a brief had been presented to the cabinet but Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell had written saying he would be essentially wrong.

Day-to-day control of store hours should be undertaken by local councils and the businesses themselves, he said.

However, Mr. Campbell suggested the mini-metro plan might be extended to encompass the question of shopping hours.

Mr. Hunt expressed "deep disappointment" that the Associated Chambers of Commerce of Vancouver Island this week declined to support the plan for provincial regulations.

He said "Chambers of Commerces don't understand the retailers. The chambers have sat on the fence continually and this won't solve anything."

Replies to a questionnaire showed 91 per cent of retailers in favor of regulated hours, 81 per cent wanted a full day closing, and 87 per cent did not want an optional extra late night.

Joe Kuzik and Dick Benzies of the Duncan-Cowichan chamber agreed to try to revive the retail division which went defunct four years ago over the disputed question of closing hours.

Much as I hate to give Gas town - on - Burrard credit for anything save fog and thuggery, I am forced to concede that Vancouver's live-wire PTA groups haven't been sitting on their hands in the matter of student bus fares.

On Thursday, through Alex Macdonald, NDP for Vancouver-East, they backed earlier protests against outrageous student bus fares with a 23,000-name petition for an easement more adequate than the two and a half cent cut awarded in January.

They now request a five-cent reduction, and to back their pitch, point to the hardship imposed on families with several school children by the present 10-cent-a-dollar ticket strip or 15 cents cash rate on school days only.

I've never been sure just how effective petitions are, but Mr. Macdonald at least made an impressive sight as he lugged the petition scrolls into the House in a well-worn pack-sack.

It should also be remembered, I suppose, that the old folks' $5 supplementary allowance raise followed soon after a bus pass plea backed by a mountain of Victoria signatures.

Lady member Lois Hagen, from whom we haven't heard much lately, had a word to say at the afternoon sitting about that new attraction for restless adolescents, the discotheque.

Mrs. Hagen boggled the pronunciation of the name which these dancing-to-discos houses have brought with them from France via New York. She hadn't been in one, either, and was doubtful what went on behind their doors.

"But," she said, "I'm afraid these clubs are being organized and operated simply to make money from young people."

"I haven't been in one, but I have talked to a number of parents, and they are very concerned over what's going on."

"What goes on, I'm told, is the specialized dancing of youth, without inspiration of liquor. Such incidents as have arisen involve the kids who went on from the discotheques."

Mrs. Hagen's general, and gloomy view: "I'm perturbed because I feel we're being faced with a world of undisciplined youth; and this is our fault. Since we do not accept young people in our adult world, they create a world of their own."

But haven't the young always done that? Didn't we? Didn't the lady MLA for Grand Forks-Greenwood?

Opposition stalwart Leo Nimsick—who has spoken well this session, if at agonizing length—is one of the few members apparently immune to the spirit which pervades the Legislative Assembly as the end nears.

JONES TO SUE BENNETT FOR SLANDER

Legislation To Control Klan Urged

LOWNDESBOURG, Ala. (AP) — Four Ku Klux Klansmen from the Birmingham area were arrested by FBI agents today on charges of conspiracy in the ambush slaying of a Detroit white woman, shot to death near here Thursday night after joining a civil rights march.

President Johnson announced the arrests only 16½ hours after the assassin-type killing of Viola Gregg Liuzzo, 39, an attractive mother of five.

FBI agents arrested the four men in Birmingham on warrants issued by a federal commissioner at Montgomery.

Scores of agents who were in the Selma-Montgomery area because of the simmering racial troubles kicked up by a Negro right-to-vote drive, swarmed into an intensive investigation under direct orders from the president.

FACE CONSPIRACY CHARGE

The four white men were arrested on charges of conspiracy to violate the civil rights of the gunshot victim.

They are Eugene Thomas, 43; William Orville Eaton, 41, both of Bessemer, Gary Thomas Rowe, 31, of Birmingham, and Colie Leroy Wilkins Jr., 21, of Fairfield, Ala.

President Johnson went on television to disclose the arrests after having promised the victim's anguished husband a full investigation.

In Washington, President Johnson called for legislation to control the Ku Klux Klan.

Attorney-General Nicholas Katzenbach and FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover were with the president when he announced he has directed Katzenbach to begin drafting legislation "that would bring the activities of the Klan under effective control of the law."

PLANS BILL

The president said he hoped to submit the legislation as soon as the U.S. Congress acts on his voting-rights proposal. And he suggested that congressional committees might want to begin forthwith an investigation of Klan activities.

Chairman Edwin E. Willis said today he would confine his House committee on un-American activities "as soon as possible" to consider President Johnson's call for an investigation of the Ku Klux Klan.

Johnson labelled the Klan "a hooded society of bigots." He said:

"If any Klansmen hear my voice, this is both an appeal and a warning to get out of the Ku Klux Klan and enter decent society now, before it is too late."

The president heaped scorn on the Klan, saying that the four arrested men "struck by night, as they generally do."

The charge of conspiracy to violate civil rights is about the only way the federal government has of proceeding against the men. Murder is a state matter and any charge of that character would be a matter of Alabama.

Governor George C. Wallace, who had posted a $1,000 reward-maximum allowed by Alabama law—declined to comment on the arrests of the white-supremacist organization.

Earlier he said he regretted the slaying.

Robert M. Shelton Jr. of Tuscaloosa, Ala., Imperial Wizard of the United Klans, said he knew nothing of the slaying in Alabama is Ku Klux Klanmen."

Mrs. Liuzzo, a student at Wayne State University was shuttling marchers from Montgomery to Selma.

Damage Sought For Statements

A slander suit was launched today against Premier W. A. C. Bennett by George Jones, suspended government purchaser.

A writ against the premier, on behalf of Mr. Jones, was issued by the British Columbia Supreme Court this morning in Vancouver.

Mr. Jones' lawyer, D. A. Thompson of Vancouver, arrived at the Legislative Buildings just before 3 this afternoon with the registered writ to serve on the premier.

He was refused entry to the Speaker's corridor behind the legislative chamber.

Mr. Thompson then went to the public gallery to await the end of the sitting. It's understood he'll then catch the premier on the way to his office and serve the writ.

The news caught Premier Bennett by surprise this morning. He would only tell reporters he had not been served and he had not referred the matter to a lawyer yet.

Mr. Jones, in an interview, said he also was surprised by the timing but confirmed that he had previously instructed his lawyer to sue Premier Bennett "for damages for slander."

Mr. Jones said no specific sum of money has been mentioned and emphasized he was more concerned about the principle.

"Since I have been denied access to my constitutional rights (to appear before the legislature to defend himself from the controversial bill to fire him) this is the only medium left to me.

"I have to establish why I am being fired.

"I can't do it in the house... so I have to do it this way."

REPUTATION AT STAKE

Mr. Jones said that one of his chief concerns was to preserve his professional reputation so that he could get a job in the future.

"Defamatory and slanderous inferences and innuendos have been repeated and republished on an occasion which is not privileged."

"I have received reports of comments made by the premier on a public occasion at a gathering of Social Credit party members at the Victoria Social Credit Association on Friday, March 5.

"At that time, Mr. Bennett is alleged to have said that he could not discuss the Jones case, but if he could there was plenty he could say.

"He asked specifically that the party support the government position on this legislation as it was completely justified.

"I believe that the statement made in the climate of publicity and public opinion which has been generated by my detractors, is a slander and defamation of my character and good name."

NO ALTERNATIVE

"If the government will not reveal to the legislature and the people of this province what these unnamed crimes may be, I have no alternative but to commence an action before the courts, for slander and defamation against the premier, for the remarks which have been attributed to him.

"In that way I will force Mr. Bennett to come into court to reveal these charges and to prove them before a judge and jury, where I will have the opportunity to defend myself."

Mr. Jones indicated that the report of the Social Credit meeting he was referring to, was published in the Victoria Times on March 6.

Mr. Jones said in the interview that if, as the premier had told the legislature, there was no blemish on Mr. Jones' professional competence or character involved in the firing "why haven't I been offered a job somewhere else."

Professor To Speak At Winnipeg

OTTAWA (CP) — Immigration Minister Nicholson said today he has decided to allow American Professor Melford Q. Sibley to enter Canada to fulfill speaking engagements in Winnipeg.

He told the Commons this decision has been transmitted to immigration officials at Winnipeg who last Friday barred Prof. Sibley at Winnipeg.

Replying to Opposition Leader Diefenbaker, the minister said he was exercising his ministerial discretion to allow Prof. Sibley's entry.

Two days ago Mr. Nicholson told the House that the political science professor was barred because the department had doubts about his admissibility under several sections of the Immigration Act. He quoted one section dealing with the barring of persons who are members of or associated with groups advocating subversion by force.

Protests against the action have been received from the Voice of Women, which had arranged for Prof. Sibley's scheduled speaking engagement in Winnipeg, and from U.S. Vice-President Hubert Humphrey and the governor of Minnesota.

After Mr. Nicholson's announcement, Mr. Diefenbaker said a repentence is always welcome.

Earlier, the opposition leader had questioned External Affairs Minister Martin for details of U.S. protests in the Sibley case.

Mr. Martin said telegrams were received by the Canadian embassy in Washington but no formal representations were made to the Canadian government.

Were any informal representations made? Mr. Diefenbaker pressed.

Mr. Martin said he wasn't aware of any.

Bennett Plans Shuffle Based on Federal Seats

By JOHN MIKA
Times Legislative Reporter

Premier Bennett Thursday night indicated he favors using the federal government's redistribu-tion to create 23

seats in the House of Commons in place of the province's present

22.

The premier suggested that the federal ridings could be reduced to 22, with two members to be elected from each to the B.C.

legislature.

The only modification would be that the huge federal riding in the Peace River district would be split into two provincial constituencies of dual membership.

This would give the reformed provincial legislature 48 seats in place of the present 52.

"I would like a small, well-paid legislature," the premier said.

"And who would argue against the independent commission's boundaries?"

PROBABLE STAND

In particular, provisions should be made for an adequate numeration prior to by-elections and general elections, he said.

"Making certain that voting lists are up to date are a necessary first step," he said.

"But I don't wish to be too critical because I am very pleased that redistribution is under consideration."

He noted that the establishment of an impartial body for the redistribution is made.

It would meet the requirements urged last month by The Times and several MLAs for a revamping of provincial constituencies aimed at giving more equitable representation to B.C.

voters generally in their provincial legislature.

At one stroke, the demands for a non-political examination of constituencies would be satisfied. In addition, the federal commission is to review boundaries every 10 years after census figures are reported, meeting another demand in the B.C.

Meanwhile a telegram with 200 signatures was sent to Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes Thursday urging him not to sign the government bill firing Mr. Jones.

The lieutenant-governor has the constitutional power to refuse royal assent but the right is rarely used.

auto. One struck her in the neck.

The mother was driving toward Montgomery to pick up a second group of march participants. Sitting beside her was a Negro youth, 19-year-old Leroy Moton of Selma.

Maj. William O. Gray of the federalized Alabama National Guard which provided security for the march, said no guardsmen were patrolling the Selma-Montgomery highway when the killing occurred.

Moton hitchhiked back to Selma where he was being held by police as a material witness.

STABBED TO DEATH

There were these other racial developments:

1. A Negro, Perry Peterson, 16, was stabbed to death in a fight in New York City between Negroes and whites. A white, Joseph Huber, 17, was charged with Peterson's death.

2. Senator James O. Eastland (Dem.-Miss.) chairman of the Senate judiciary committee, assailed President Johnson's voting-rights bill as "heinous and oppressive" and designed deliberately to exclude Texas.

The victim's husband, Anthony Luzzo, business agent for Teamsters Local 247 in Detroit, put in a call to the president and was told by an aide that Johnson would return the call.

Luzzo said he wanted to ask the president: "How come?" and "Where do we go from here?"

The distraught husband said he told an unidentified presidential aide: "There are five children here and my wife died for a cause that President Johnson believes in."

Mrs. Luzzo had participated in the march.

Her slaying came less than two weeks after Rev. James J. Reeb of Boston died following a clubbing by white men in Selma. The white minister had taken part in a march also. And on Feb. 26, 26-year-old Jimmie Lee Jackson, a Negro, died of a gunshot wound suffered in violence following a night march at Marion, Ala.

Moton said he heard a sound like a rock hitting the door of the car and Mrs. Luzzo slumped over. The car skidded out of control, toppled three posts of a barbed-wire fence and came to a stop in a pasture.

Moton said an auto pulled alongside about the time he heard something hit and then surged past. After their car stopped, Moton said, he ducked down in the seat when he saw the other auto turn around. A light flashed into their car and then the other auto raced away, he said.

To the best of his knowledge, Gray said, no regular army troops were on patrol.

ACTIVE IN QUARTERS

Col. Rufus Shepherd, state deputy adjutant-general, said that guardsmen and army troops remained on active duty at their quarters, however, and could not be released except by presidential order.

Moton said he heard a sound like a rock hitting the door of the car and Mrs. Luzzo slumped over. The car skidded out of control, toppled three posts of a barbed-wire fence and came to a stop in a pasture.

Moton said an auto pulled alongside about the time he heard something hit and then surged past. After their car stopped, Moton said, he ducked down in the seat when he saw the other auto turn around. A light flashed into their car and then the other auto raced away, he said.

To the best of his knowledge, Gray said, no regular army troops were on patrol.

ACTIVE IN QUARTERS

Col. Rufus Shepherd, state deputy adjutant-general, said that guardsmen and army troops remained on active duty at their quarters, however, and could not be released except by presidential order.

The victim's husband, Anthony Luzzo, business agent for Teamsters Local 247 in Detroit, put in a call to the president and was told by an aide that Johnson would return the call.

Luzzo said he wanted to ask the president: "How come?" and "Where do we go from here?"

The distraught husband said he told an unidentified presidential aide: "There are five children here and my wife died for a cause that President Johnson believes in."

Mrs. Luzzo had participated in the march.

Her slaying came less than two weeks after Rev. James J. Reeb of Boston died following a clubbing by white men in Selma. The white minister had taken part in a march also. And on Feb. 26, 26-year-old Jimmie Lee Jackson, a Negro, died of a gunshot wound suffered in violence following a night march at Marion, Ala.

Bonded Stock is in the best shape ever.

Our whisky doesn't come in those old bottles anymore. Those fine old bottles have launched their last sips. We've designed these new containers for Bonded Stock. Plus matching new labels. And we age Bonded Stock longer now as well. This makes every drop just a little more mellow. One thing though. Bonded Stock's smooth lightness we don't change. Our blenders know a good thing when they taste it.

Judging from the number of people who buy Bonded Stock, so does the rest of the country.

Gooderham's have been distilling fine whiskies since 1832
